

Over the wall NTSU approves on-campus pubs

NTSU gets beer, wine on campus
NORTH TEXAS STATE UNIVERSITY students will be able to quench their thirst for beer and wine on campus soon.

By a 7-2 vote last week, the board of regents let NTSU join the ranks with UT-Austin, UT-Arlington, and UT-San Antonio, which all sell beer on campus.

Beer and wine will be served at the Rock Bottom Lounge of the University Union on a one-year probationary system. The alcoholic beverages will be sold after 5 p.m. on weekdays and after 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

According to the report in the "North Texas Daily," student union officials say it will be summer or fall before the serving facilities will be ready. The university must receive an alcoholic beverage license, and storage and serving equipment must be installed.

By the way, one of the two regents who voted against the proposal said he was influenced by a talk he had with Texas A&M President, Jack Williams, after the A&M regents voted against liquor on campus.

UHDC changes colors, mascot
Red and white and cougars will no longer represent the UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON DOWNTOWN COLLEGE.

According to a report in the "Daily Cougar," officials at the downtown campus said they felt a separate and distinct identity from the main campus was needed.

UHDC's new colors are green and white. A bayou alligator will replace the cougar as mascot. An alligator was chosen because the campus is near Buffalo Bayou in downtown Houston.

The other two UH campuses are keeping their colors and Shasta, the cougar.

UH registration area robbed
Some UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON students will have to pay their registration fees twice this semester.

Kling named new legal adviser

Christopher J. Kling has been named student legal adviser at Texas A&M University, announced Dr. John J. Koldus, vice president for student services.

Kling, formerly assistant student legal adviser, succeeds Kenneth M. Robison who is entering private practice locally.

A new assistant adviser will soon be named, Dr. Koldus said.

A 1973 A&M graduate, Kling joined the staff in September, 1976.

Two armed men made off with $11,500 in cash and $35,000 in checks after holding up five UH employees at the Cullen Building during registration last week.

The men forced their way into the cashier's office and held automatic pistols on the women. The men were not masked, but the "Daily Cougar" reported that they were not identified and the license number of the getaway car was not determined.

None of the employees were hurt, just scared. They were so frightened, they delayed calling the police for about five minutes, giving the men time to get away.

Students who wrote checks for registration will have to write new checks to the University to replace the stolen ones.

Post card finally reaches destination

Neither rain nor snow nor misplaced mail. The TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY post office received a post card last week for a history professor who no longer works at the University.

Nothing especially unusual about that, but the card was mailed 17 years ago, postmarked Jan. 25, 1960.

The "University Daily" reported that the professor, Dr. William Pierce, is now president of Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. The card was forwarded to him.

UT to investigate senate problems

Is a student senate necessary? Should it be disbanded on the UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS campus? A committee of the Student Senate at UT is looking into the question of whether or not any form of student government is needed on the campus.

A recent report in the "Daily Texan" said the study will take approximately three months. The committee will examine problems in the structure and function of the senate and will propose changes, which could include disbandment.

The survey idea developed because of the problems which plague the student senate—apathy of both students and senators.
