Baseball team loses doubleheader

By STEVE MARTAINDALE
Adding insult to injury, Texas A&M University's baseball team dropped both ends of a doubleheader to visiting Oklahoma City University by margins of 7-5 and 3-2 on Kyle Field Monday afternoon.

The injury occurred Sunday when, visiting Lubbock, the Aggies lost a conference doubleheader to Texas Tech by scores of 7-6 and 6-5.

OCU will be back on Kyle Field this afternoon at 1 p.m. for another doubleheader.

The wins were the first for the Chiefs, giving them a 2-5 record while the Aggie's slate dropped to 12-5.

Two home runs in the opening game gave Texas A&M all its runs. Tim Feickert, a junior college transfer from California, hit his first home run as an Aggie to give Texas A&M a 2-1 advantage in the second inning. The hit also brought in Bob Dulak, who opened the inning by getting on with an error.

OCU moved back into the lead in the third after Mark Glass and Chuck Page opened the inning with walks. A sacrifice bunt advanced them around the bases and Glass scored on a fielder's choice when Dave Grisham grounded out.

Page scored on the next pitch when Bob Fiala reached first on an error.

The Chiefs added another run in the fourth when Craig Cotton rapped a double, reached third on an error and scored on a fly to center.

Dulak again opened the Aggies' scoring, reaching first on a base-on-balls. Feickert picked up a single to move Dulak to second where they both sat through two outs.

Robert Verde moved the Ags back into the lead with the game's second home run, for a 5-4 difference.

Oklahoma City wrapped up the win and the game's scoring in the sixth inning, scoring three runs off of only one hit.

Bill Nashert went the entire seven innings for the Chiefs to get the win. The loss went to reliever Ronnie Scarce, his first decision. Nashert's record is 1-1.

Aggie Buddy Grobe led the game in the hitting department with two singles and a double in four at-bats. Feickert went two-for-four. Page led the Chiefs, going two-for-three.

The Aggies left eight runners on base in the first game, compared to OCU's four.

In the second game, the Chiefs carried a 3-0 lead into the sixth inning, scoring in three different two-hit innings.

In the first period, second baseman Page got on base because of an error and scored on a pair of singles from Grisham and Bob Fiala. Craig

Cotton led the second inning with a single and was advanced to home by a sacrifice bunt and a one-base hit from Mark Glass.

With two out in the fifth, left fielder Ronnie Dahl hit a single and came in off a Grisham double.

The Aggies opened the sixth inning intent on making up the difference. Grobe opened with a double and shortstop Robert Bonner followed with a single. Shelton McMath began the scoring when he singled in Grobe. With one out, Winston Whiddon walked to load the bases.

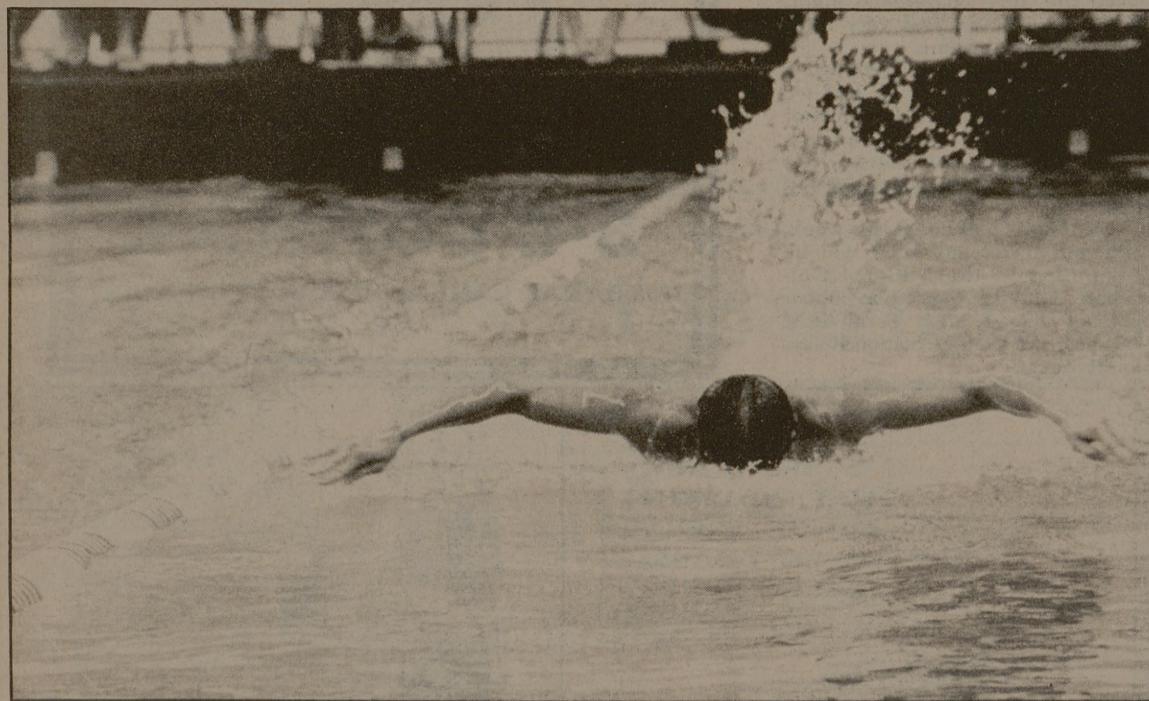

Feickert watched a fourth ball go by to break a full count and force

Bonner in and make the Chiefs bring in a new pitcher. Steve Marcum went to the mound for OCU and killed the Aggie surge with an infield pop-up and a strike out.

The Aggies again stranded eight runners in the game, as did Oklahoma City. Ron Smith was credited with the win for the Chiefs, giving him a 1-0 record. Mike Vetterfered the loss, dropping his to 0-1.

OCU's Craig Cotton led the Chiefs for the afternoon, going four-for-five. Grobe led the going four-for-seven. Vetterfered four RBIs to lead in the ment.

Article on 'Aggie Spirit' put in legislative record

Houston Post Columnist Lynn Ashby's recent article on far-flung and foreign Aggies has been entered into the Congressional Record, courtesy of Rep. Olin E. (Tiger) Teague.

Teague had the article included in the Feb. 24 issue of the congressional proceedings after the following preparatory remarks: "Mr. Speaker, much has been said of the Texas Aggies, both in peace and war; and also in some jokes which are not generally accepted by a Texas Aggie. One gentleman, however, has said it all in the following article entitled 'Not One Joke' written by Mr. Lynn Ashby that appeared in the Houston Post on February 9, 1977, which portrays the Aggie Spirit and camaraderie."

The article also was a key factor in a recent decision by A&M's alumni organization, the Association of Former Students, to make Ashby an associate member and honorary Aggie — not bad for a UT graduate.

McDONALD'S INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

This Week In Intramurals New Event Coming

Be sure to watch this ad in the coming weeks for information about three brand new special events just for you. A Pass, Punt, and Kick contest and a Tug-of-War contest are both scheduled for April 2, and a Home Run Hitting contest has been scheduled for April 12. For further information concerning rules, times, and entries, watch this ad or come by the IM Office, located at DeWare Fieldhouse.

Three-Man Volleyball

Another new event this year will be a Three-Man Volleyball Tournament to begin Monday, March 28. Entries will close on Tuesday, March 22 and will be limited to the first 150 teams with Men, Women, and Co-Rec teams eligible. Co-Rec teams can be either 2 men and 1 woman or 1 man and 2 women. Class A will be "power" play utilizing USVBA rules with IM adaptations, while Class B will be "jungle" play with IM rules. This will be round-robin competition with single elimination play-offs and all equipment will be furnished by the IM Office. So, get a couple of friends and come on out and enter — you have nothing to lose but the championship!

Horseshoes Winners

In a very close match that stayed tied for several rounds, Ronnie Stevens and Jim Calle of Walton Hall defeated Royder and Tillotson of D-2 to win the All-University Title in IM Horseshoes last week. In the second game of the match, the score remained tied at 12-all for four rounds before Stephens tossed a ringer that won the match for his team.

In Class B competition, Danielson and Hopkins of Sq. 9 walked over every other team to win.

Bronson, Johnson Handball Champs

Jeff Bronson and Don Johnson defeated Tom Bozeman and Stu Walker of Hart Hall last week 15-1, 15-1 to win the All-University Handball Doubles Championship. Dr. Bronson, who works at the Cyclotron Center, and Mr. Johnson, who is Assistant Commandant of the Corp, were playing in the Independent Division of Class A and were also winners of that Division, while Bozeman and Walker were the Dorm Champs.

In other Class A action, Joe Taylo and Brent Ravage of Sq. 6 took the Corps title, while Rob Dimmick and Mark Previty of F-2 won the Fish Division.

Rick Shutt and Charlie Deyhle, Men's Class B Independent winners, beat Gus Gonzales and Kent Riper of K-1, the Corps winners, 15-7, 15-3, to win that Class Championship. The men's Dorm winners in Class B were Hall and Dishourgh.

Event Dates Set

Definite dates for several IM events have now been set. The Canoe Race, whose entries will close today at 5:00 p.m., will be held on Saturday, March 22, starting at 10:00 a.m.

The preliminaries for Men's and Women's Dorm, Independent, and Co-Rec in the IM Track meet, held on Kyle Field, will be on Tuesday, April 5 at 7:00 p.m. Corp and Fish prelims and all field events will be held all day Saturday, April 9. Divisional finals for Men's and Women's Dorm and Independent will be held on Thursday, April 7 at 7:00 p.m. The All-University Track Meet will be held on Monday, April 11, beginning at 7:00 p.m. on Kyle Field.

Games of the Week Competition Fiercely As Finals Approach

Women's Dorm

As all divisions of IM Basketball action are rapidly approaching the finals, two on-campus rival dorms, Keathley and Krueger, squared off last week in a Class A game. It was a low-scoring and very close game with Keathley winning, 22-17. P. Pruitt was the leading scorer for Keathley with 12 points, while Mary Ellen Thesis and Lisa Killian led Krueger with 8 and 4 points, respectively.

Men's Dorm

In another close but not as scoring Class C dorm rivalry, Puryear VII defeated L-1 40-39 last week. In this game, Puryear VII won by a narrow margin, but the difference between winning and losing for L-1 they lost one point each for 11 fouls to only 8 fouls for Puryear VII. The finals in each of these divisions are rapidly approaching and come on out and support your favorite team and watch them compete for Division Championship or All-University Honors.

Co-Rec

In an extremely close and fast-paced game, the Giants defeated L-1, 93-92 in a Co-Rec Class B contest. Iris Tipton, who is also a shot-putter for the A&M Women's Track team, led all scoring with 58 points for L-1 with Reggie Dent scoring 6 and Mark Smits shooting 4 points. Laura Personette led the scoring for the Giants with 42 points, followed by Debra Minifiee
