Swimmers set A&M record in Ohio

By GLENN JOHNSON
Five members of the Texas A&M University men's swim team traveled to Cleveland, Ohio this past weekend to compete in the annual three-day NCAA championship meet.

Roger Lien, sophomore from San Jose, Calif., Jim Yates, senior from Santa Clara, Calif., Chris Shipp, freshman from Dearborn, Mich., and Chuck Burr, freshman from Fort Worth, Tex., qualified to compete in the 800-yard freestyle relay. They finished with a time of 6:54.9 in the preliminaries. While this time did not qualify for the final heat, the team did set a Texas A&M record.

Lien, Shipp, Yates and Greg Meek, a sophomore from Los Angeles, Calif., made up the 400-yard freestyle relay team. Again, the members of this relay team failed to qualify for the final heat; however, they came only four-tenths of a second from tying their best time which was set at the Southwest Conference championship meet this year.

These two events were the only ones that members of the Texas A&M team participated.

In order for a team to qualify for the NCAA championships, they must, in an official meet, at least equal the qualifying times set by the NCAA in September. These times are arbitrary and are chosen so that approximately 50 swimmers from all over the country will be eligible to compete in each event.

This year, there were as many as 80 in some events and as few as 40 in others.

In most cases, the competitors in the NCAA meet are the best in the country, therefore, the times needed to place are extremely fast, and are shortened every year.

"We did good for ourselves even though we didn't win," Lien said. "We went and did our best."

There are mixed opinions among the team members as to why the Aggies cannot win in national competition. The major reason seems to be a lack of scholarship money to be used for recruiting new swimmers, the team said. Some of the swimmers also said that the university as a whole has a poor attitude toward swimming.

"We need a good recruiting year to improve the team," Burr said yesterday. "Most of the best swimmers come from California, and we just need more money to get them to come here."

On Wednesday, April 6, team members along with swimming coach Dennis Burr, who is in charge of recruiting swimmers, will travel to Cleveland, Ohio, for the Amateur Athletic Union national championship. There, many high school swimmers will be competing and should provide a preview of swimmers recruited by colleges and universities next season.

Results of the Professor Information Survey, conducted by the Professor Information Sub-Committee of Academic Affairs, have been compiled and are now available to students.

The professor information booklet was compiled from questionnaires answered last semester. These questionnaires were passed out in class for the purpose of evaluating the professor.

Students were asked to agree or disagree with 14 statements, concerning the usual questions asked when choosing a professor. These questions included statements on instructor's presentation, work load, class discussion and whether or not the professor was considered "hard." The information was compiled by computer and presented in tabular, reference form.

The booklet is now available in the Student Government Office, Room 216-C Memorial Student Center. It will also be distributed with the fall schedule of courses in the Coke Building. The distribution in the Coke Building will begin April 10. More than 10,000 copies will be distributed this semester.

Thanks to all those who helped with the Professor Information Project, last semester. Thanks go to Bill Ambrose for computer time, Dan Sullins for cover design, Stan Stanfield for advice, and all the executive aids who did so much in preparing the booklet. We would especially like to thank all those who helped with the distribution of the questionnaires to the classes. Without all those volunteers this mammoth job never could have been completed. Of course, many thanks to all the professors who participated in the program.
