Horton trade to improve Ranger club

United Press International
DETROIT — The Detroit Tigers yesterday announced an agreement with the Texas Rangers to trade Willie Horton, the veteran slugger who has completed a slow death for me.
The Tigers would not trade until Horton decides he will accept being moved to his hometown. He has been in the majors 10 years, five same team.
Rangers' owner Brad C. and General Manager Dan O. declined comment pending a decision by Horton. Ranger Frank Lucchesi said he has nothing to say.
"Horton would go as a designated hitter," he conjectured. "I don't know what to do."
Horton was with the Toronto and was not immediately available for comment.
But following Monday's game the Blue Jays, Horton wittily predicted a trade. He said he might not be going to another team.
"If you can't use a person else where he can play a lot of other teams that can play regularly for."
The 33-year-old former leftfielder has spent the seasons as a designated hitter.

He started in his old position opening day in Tiger Stadium since that game he has regular duty. His place in the field has been taken by Steve Kemp, and veteran Staub has handled the designated hitter role.

I would just as soon have played the first game. Things are now," Horton said. "This is like a slow death for me."
"I understand why Kemp is going. The kid has got to play for him all the luck in the world. What they want to do, but I see why they have to punish him."
Horton, who graduated from Detroit Northwestern High School in 1965. He has a career batting average of .270, home runs and 886 runs batted in. His name is on the team's top ten lists for almost every category.
