Geology students receive awards

Eight senior students received recognition this week at the May meeting of the faculty of the College of Geosciences.

The students were selected by the Student Awards Committee of the College to receive Outstanding Student Awards in recognition of their scholarship and extra-curricular activities. A recipient must have a minimum grade point ratio of 3.25 and be a December, May or August graduate.

Dr. Earl Cook, dean of the College of Geosciences, presented certificates to: Barbara Butler of Texas City, James Davis of Fort Worth and James Deaconson of Mt. Morris, Ill., all majoring in meteorology; Patricia Grothouse of Houston, majoring in geophysics; James Jones of Sour Lake, majoring in geology; Janet Koehler of San Antonio, majoring in geography; Roberta Marshment of Dayton, Ohio, majoring in meteorology, and Christine Warren of Alhambra, Calif., majoring in geophysics.

Winners of the Thomas S. Gathright awards for the senior, junior and sophomore students in each college who have the highest grade point ratio for their class were also announced.

This year's winners in the College of Geosciences were: Senior Patricia Grothouse; junior Grace M. Chen, meteorology major from Kowloon, Hong Kong, and sophomore Ronny McWhorter, geophysics major from Houston.

A&M graduates promoted, lauded

Three U.S. Air Force officers who were commissioned at Texas A&M University have been honored for their work.

Capt. Clifford D. Sassman of Falfurrias, 1st Lt. Donald J. Eglinton of Aptos, Calif., and 2nd Lt. Albert F. Burnett of San Antonio received awards or made career advances.

Capt. Sassman, varsity tennis captain before graduation in 1966, graduated from instrument pilot instructor school at Randolph AFB.

An aerospace engineering major at A&M, Sassman will return to Kelly AFB for duty with an Air Force Logistics Command unit.

Lt. Eglinton received the Air Force Commendation Medal. The 1974 graduate was cited for achievement as flight officer in charge of the Seymour Johnson AFB, N.C., honor guard. Eglinton serves as civil engineering officer with a Tactical Air Command unit at the base.

Lt. Burnett completed training in a supply operations officer course at Lowry AFB, Colo. The 1976 graduate was trained in material control by electronic data processing. He will be stationed at Bergstrom AFB with a TAC unit.

Eglinton and Burnett were in Squadron 1 of the Corps of Cadets as A&M undergraduates. Sassman was executive officer of Squadron 16. All three were commissioned through the AF-ROTC program.
