Limitation to cosmetic surgery

WASHINGTON—Cosmetic surgeons can make some people better but a Tulane University specialist says facial remodeling limitations and is not for everyone.

No doctor can make an unattractive girl beautiful or make a 40-year-old woman look like she is 20, said Dr. Calvin Johnson in an article in the medical journal, American Family Physician.

"A patient who cannot accept perfection is likely to be dissatisfied with the result," he said. "No surgeon can deliver perfection."

But he said cosmetic surgery please and satisfy patients with young people who do not want features that set them apart from older people who want to look as good as they feel.

"Strong motivation and realistic expectations are especially important," Johnson said. "The result of an aesthetic surgical procedure is permanent. It cannot be chiseled or discarded as though it were a hairstyle."

"A patient should have a strong and unwavering desire for surgery. Spur-of-the-moment decisions, frivolity and indecision have no place in this situation."

Johnson emphasized that cosmetic surgery will not solve marital problems, and will not pull someone out of the depths of depression.

"A long-held, simple and genuine desire to look more attractive is, however, a reasonable motivation," he said.

Johnson said aesthetic operations are performed by doctors of various specialties and he said it is wise to select a surgeon who does a lot of such work.

"He would probably not have such a practice if he were doing no work, for his results are on display for all to see."

Johnson said one of the most difficult of the facial operations to perform is a rhinoplasty—plastic surgery of the nose. The operation takes one to two hours and requires a patient to remain in the hospital for two to three days.

A cosmetic procedure to correct protruding ears is called otoplasty. Johnson said it is best to do this children before they enter school. The operation takes one to one and a half hours and requires a one-day hospitalization.

He said procedures to give a younger appearance include blepharoplasty which improves sagging eyelid skin, a brow-lift to correct sagging eyebrow tissues, face-lift to correct sagging facial tissues and chemical face peeling to correct weathered skin and etched lines.

An operation performed to smooth acne-scarred skin is called dermabrasion. The skin is "sand down" by an abrasive procedure, Johnson said the results are far from perfect "but the improvement is greatly appreciated by the patient."

He said disfiguring scars can be erased but may cover scars surgically into less conspicuous scars.

Johnson said the techniques of cosmetic surgery are basically simple, but the doctor must "have a proportion and an eye for symmetry and beauty."

Miami murder suspect claims TV intoxication

MIAMI—A defense lawyer tried to break new legal ground by tending his 15-year-old client as a victim of "television intoxication" in a Miami courtroom.

Ronnie Zamora, a curly-haired junior high school student, has been charged with first-degree murder in the June 4 slaying of a Miami neighbor, 82-year-old Elinor Haggart.

Assistant State Attorney Tom Headley, apparently determined to keep the trial focused on what the state has called "a cold-blooded murder," questioned prospective jurors Tuesday about their feelings on capital punishment.

He has not indicated whether he plans to ask for the death penalty.

The state contends Zamora and his companion, Darrell Agrella, robbed Mrs. Haggart of $400 and shot her to death because she wouldn't give them more money.

According to the charges, Zamora then took the victim's money and for a weekend spree at Walt Disney World near Orlando, Fla.

But defense attorney Ellis Ball said Zamora—characterized as an "addict"—was a victim of "television intoxication" at the time of the crime. He said the youth's addiction to television, especially violent programs, led him to a state of temporary insanity.

Baker allowed Ruben to ask prospective jurors if they watch television, but he refused to allow questions about their viewing habits. "What television programs do you watch is totally irrelevant," he said.

The novel defense also has led to the subpoenaing of actor Tom Savalas, a critic of TV violence. Zamora has said Savalas' portrayal of TV detective "Kojak" was his inspiration.
