

New books here soon

By TOUMONAVA MULLINS
For a change of pace, you might want to curl up and read one of the current best-sellers soon to be published by the Sterling C. Evans Library. The collection, provided by Joseph Lease Service of Minnesota, consists of approximately 600 titles, many of which are multiple copies of best-sellers, said Deborah Brown, special projects librarian. She said the collection will include fiction, nonfiction, biographies, science fiction, mysteries and business books chosen from the book of the Month Club, the New York Times book review list and the Publisher's Weekly. "This will be a fast-turnover operation," Brown said. "The books can be checked out for two weeks only. We can't check them out a second time, nor can we take reserves for them." Initially, Noreen Alldredge of the library staff, will make the selections, Brown said. Later someone else will be in charge and will ask for input from students, faculty and staff, she said. "Cards will be kept in the books to indicate how often they're used," Brown said. "Books which prove to be unpopular are returned while high-interest books are retained, usually in multiple copies. The popular collection is exchanged in early October and will be shelved on the first floor in the new lobby area, Brown said. She said books will be made accessible by title through a separate and adjacent card catalog.

Beware: Crawling baby

United Press International
SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Visitors to California Assemblyman John Vasconcellos' office in the state Capitol are careful not to trip over the toys or gaze at the baby crawling over the law books.

The tyke belongs to Susan Lange, Vasconcellos' administrative assistant, who refuses to leave her 13-month-old daughter, Sierra, with a babysitter. So, she brings her to work.

"Some people thought it was unfair to the baby and some said it was inappropriate because this is a place of business. But I'd rather have her with me than with a babysitter," she said.

Lange, who has worked with Vasconcellos for 5 1/2 years, said she asked her boss about the unusual arrangement and he decided to try it.

"He really stuck his neck out on this one," she said. "He could have gotten a lot of hassle from his constituents."

Lange said she works an extra two hours by arriving at work early and bypassing lunch to compensate for the lost time she takes to care for Sierra.

"This way, the taxpayers can't say I'm taking their money for babysitting, because skipping lunch adds extra hours to my day," she said.

"Having Sierra here has been a wonderful experience for me," secretary Dolores Saint said. "It's been so long since I've seen a little one grow up, and it's nice to know that one of the fringe benefits of coming to work is getting hugs and kisses."

Lange, whose husband is a student, feels parents should include their children more in day-to-day activities.

The C&S Transit Co. on Harvey Road, College Station

Refurbished railroad depot makes successful restaurant

The C&S Transit Co., at 815 Harvey Road, opened its doors to Bryan-College Station in April — the most unique Italian restaurant in the area. The building housing the restaurant is an old railroad depot which was built in Waller in 1907. The building was cut in half and moved to the area on Harvey Road where it was renovated and decorated in a turn-of-the-century fashion. Owners Bill Cangelose and Thomas R. Saving engaged the help of J. W. Wood, architect in locating the building and designing the changes. Don Martell did the renovation while Beth Martell with Accents Contemporary assisted with the interior design.

"All the wood is original," explained Cangelose who manages the restaurant, and most of the rooms are as near to the original as possible except for a bit of sandblasting and painting in each of the five dining rooms.

The restaurant features a garden room, a movie room, a family room, a party room, and a bar with a large dining area which is located in the old freight warehouse.

Besides a decor in rust, browns and red complete with plaid carpeting, tapestry-looking draperies, cane lamps and plants in the garden room and patchwork quilt lighting fixtures in the family room, the restaurant also capitalizes on fine Italian food.

Mrs. Rena Cangelose, Cangelose's mother, assisted with the decor by making the patchwork quilts by hand, and she assists daily with the menu.

Featured are Mrs. Cangelose's own meatballs with a special sauce which is also her recipe. Other sauces used in the restaurant are Mrs. Cangelose's specialties.

In the preparation of ten pasta dinners along with a long line of pizzas and sandwiches, only fresh foods are used. Cangelose stressed frozen products are just not used at C&S, in favor of freshness.

Prices at The C&S Transit Co. are among the most reasonable in town. The prices are within easy reach of families and students, and besides low prices on all regular menu items, C&S offers a lunch special Monday through Friday for only $1.89.

The $1.89 meal includes any 9-inch pizza or any of seven spaghetti dinners, or any sandwich, plus a salad and soft drink. It's a bargain.

Besides a complete selection of soft drinks, beer by the mug or pitcher and wine by the glass, The C&S Transit Co. is famous for its daquiris and ice cream drinks from the bar. Many of the spirit combinations include fresh fruit.

The list also includes some C&S specials such as the "All Aboard," the "Gold Spike," and "Cow Catcher," or the "Little Red Caboose."

In the movie room at The C&S Transit Co., family movies are shown. These include old-time favorites such as The Three Stooges, The Little Rascals, and Walt Disney cartoons.
