

Waco yell practice will be held in field

A field off Harris Creek Road in Waco will be the site of Friday night's Midnight yell practice. To get there, take Interstate 35 from Highway 6 and turn right on the Loop 340 exit. Follow Highway 340 to the Waco Drive and Franklin Avenue exit. Bear to the left, pass a stop sign, cross a bridge, and take a left turn in the road. Then take Highway 84 west and drive about 10 miles. Look for Harris Creek Road and turn left. Yell practice will be held on the right side of the road.

Pros to give class tips

Texas A&M students in an engineering design graphics course will get professional guidance Oct. 20-21 from the department's Visiting Engineers Program (VEP).

Nine engineers from Houston and Waco firms will consult with student teams in EDG 106 on semester-long product development projects. The engineers will give general guidance, evaluate preliminary ideas and present parallel examples from their company operations.

Department Head Dr. James Earle said student teams will complete projects on a garbage compactor, gate opener, overhead projector adapter, pole vault pit or other team-proposed problems by Dec. 1-2. Visiting engineers return then to hear team reports and evaluate the students' projects.

"It's a highly valuable experience for the student," Earle said. The VEP provides a broad view of the engineer's approach to problem solving and design methods, and how engineers communicate, in oral, graphic, and written form.

"In a sense, visiting engineers serve as a rotating industrial advisory committee. This relationship is valuable for instructional improvement and content development. The visiting engineers are encouraged to suggest changes in course materials that would improve our offerings," Earle said.

Office broken into

The Education Curriculum and Instruction office in Room 308 Harrington Center was broken into late Sunday or early Monday, reported University Police Chief O. L. Luther Tuesday.

Although no property was stolen, files containing graduate student and financial records were ransacked, Luther said. Money is never kept in the office, so reasons for the burglary are unknown, he said.

At this time, there are no suspects in connection with the burglary.
