Campbell misses Longhorn practice

AUSTIN — Four Texas Longhorns starters — including the Earl Campbell, the Southwest Conference's leading rusher — missed practice Tuesday with injuries.

However, coach Fred Akers said Campbell, ranked second nationally in yards-per-game average, and offensive linemen Rick Ingraham and George James all will be ready for the No. 2 Longhorns' game Saturday against Southern Methodist in Dallas.

Sophomore defensive tackle Steve McMichael, a member of the starting defense which has not allowed a touchdown this season, is bothered by a bruised thigh and is doubtful.

Campbell suffered a slight ankle injury in last week's victory over Arkansas and Ingraham and James have swollen knees.

Akers also said defensive back Steve Collier returned to workouts Tuesday after missing two weeks with a knee injury.
