Gotcha!

Illegal parking is sometimes convenient. Other times it can be a pain in the hubcap. University Police immobilized this car by the MSC with a rhino clamp Tuesday. To get the clamp removed, the owner must contact the police and, in all likelihood, pay a fine.

Pro and con opinions issued about J-board proceedings

By LIZ NEWLIN
Battalion Staff

Majority and minority opinions on Judicial Board proceedings that struck down the office of Student Government comptroller two weeks ago were released Tuesday.

The 5-4 decision eliminated the position of comptroller, which was placed under the executive branch to handle bookkeeping for the Student Government. Under the bill, the vice president for finance would have strictly policy-making duties. Since the bill was overturned, the vice president for finance still disburses Student Government funds.

The four-page minority report quotes the Texas A&M University Student Body Constitution as the basis for its decision and approved the bill.

"It is the opinion of the minority of the Judicial Board ... that the ruling of the board should be made in accordance with the ... constitution for the Student Body of Texas A&M University," the opinion states. "Since the actual spending of Student Government money is execution of legislation, it is the duty of the Student Body president to do so."

William Griffin, author of the opinion, suggested to future J-board members that they "think beyond the particular problem at hand and consider the entire consequences of their final decision. The consequence of this ruling is that it actually takes the duty of executing legislation away from the president. Changes of this magnitude should be made through constitutional amendment, not through judicial interpretation."

The one-page majority opinion cited the bill itself as basis for its decision. The J-board ruled there were "two inappropriate amendments for constitutionality. To begin with, the Senate cannot empower the Student Body president with new powers or responsibilities."

"Secondly, the Student Body constitution clearly outlines the functions of the executive committee and therefore no new responsibilities can be delegated there."

City National's 48 Month New Car Loan lets you drive a good deal home.

The car you buy today will probably cost more than the last one you bought. So it figures you'll need more time to pay for it.

More months to pay means a lower monthly payment. It's as simple as that.

Whatever kind of new car loan you need, for however many months (48, 42, 36), come see us when you're ready to buy. We'll help get you rolling.
