

Drill team takes honors

Texas A&M University's Fish Drill Team of 1977-78 made a good competition season start by winning one of the nation's premier meets. The Class of '81 unit marched away with all top awards at the Tulane Invitational Drill Meet. The Fish posted a 400-point margin victory in competition with teams from Penn State, Ole Miss, Miami of Ohio, Auburn and others. Tulane placed second overall and Georgia Military College took third. "The team looked pretty good," said U.S. Marine Corps Maj. John expert, team sponsor. "We had almost flawless execution." He added there were no drops. John Stine of Dallas commands the 37-member all-freshman team. Right guide as team executive officer is Paul Limon of El Paso. Eddie Cano of San Antonio is cadron bearer. The A&M Women's Drill Team marched at the Tulane meet in non-competition and in the Drewe of Jupiter Mardi Gras. WVUE-TV featured the women in news film shot during practice aboard the U.S.S. Francis Marion. Both drill teams and the Ross Volunteers, scheduled to march today in the King Rex parade, were quartered on the troop transport currently docked at New Orleans. Tulane meet officials indicated the Women's Drill Team performance Saturday will bring a competition invitation next year.
