By GLENNA WHITLEY
Battalion Staff
It's a spectacle, a decadent dream of a Ringling brother, a drunken Rose Bowl parade.

Masks cover those that taunt the shouting, hooting, begging crowd. Some masks are curtains of satin, some are clear plastic that make the flesh below look embalmed. Other masks are works of art — elaborate fantasies of silver, feathers, bright stones and spikes that make the crowd ooh and aah. The effect is ghoulish

"Give me some beads. C'mon, throw me something," shouts a middle-aged woman whose black hair is piled in curls on her head. She runs into the street and pounds on a masked man straddling a horse.

He grins, holds out a string of yellow plastic beads. She grabs, squeals and runs back into the crowd.

It's Saturday night, and the Krewe of Endymion has started its Thousands of people line Canal Street. The crowd is four persons deep. Boys and boys-at-heart are perched on every street-light and every tree in sight. Those lucky enough to own a business, or to Strings of beads, little dolls, trinknow someone who owns one along the parade route, lean from balconies or hang out windows. They scream and wave as frantically as the people down in the street.

It's only a parade. There are marching bands, Shriners in little go-carts, horses and riders, floats tossing is what makes the parades with silly themes, and people participatory. Without that, Mardi with silly themes, and people dressed in costumes waving to the Gras would be nice costumes, floats

But it's more. It's legitimate craziness. Official, anything goes. The city's attitude is — Do what you want, (short of putting someone in the hospital) and spend lots of

Instead it's a cut-throat battle The first thing I was told about the parades was not how beautiful they were, or how much the elaborate costumes cost, but how to catch doubloon What makes the parades truly fun and music

Otherwise you'll get your hand stomped on. It's true. Caught up in the excitement of the floats, music and something for nothing, some people are dead serious about catching as

Then there's the French much junk as possible.

How ridiculous it seems minute later I noticed my the air waving "Gimme, kets, and specially-minted coins called doubloons. Some of the douband my friend, in size 12, s boots, stepping on a smatennis shoe to get a double Guess who kept the double But if the beads hit the loons are collector's items. Some will get you two free pieces of chicken at Popeye's Chicken Stand, however most are worthless.

But the doubloon-and-trinketforget it. The crowd is so beads are crushed. You catch those in the air.

Some people are so ser catching vast quantities of they rig up nets, cut off the of Clorox bottles and mo on poles to get above the the crowd. But the parades are only Mardi Gras. Different kee definitions) put on fancy d "You don't dare grab with your hands," said a native I met at the airport. "First step on it and then reach under your foot to pick it up. for the cream of New Or ciety. Needless to say, I

But I've heard they're with Bourbon Street at i probably safely designate hub of debauchery for Ma

I had heard all the sto you-won't-believe-its from So I was looking forward some Romanesque. People vamping, taki ous articles of clothing, the streets to funky jazz, sniffing unusual drugs. Yas I expected it.

Frankly, I was disappoint Debauchery mainly am drinking. Everyone carr or a scotch and water, or in a huge styrofoam cup. The crowd is divers aged couples on vacatio kids, bums, Jesus freaks, gays arm-in-arm, bus women, housewives. Ev drunk. Joints are passed arous corners. Policemen are but few arrests are n seem not to care what yo as no one gets hurt. In fa the arrests made during Mardi Gras were for w sleeping in the bus term People pass the strip if fashioned, carnival barket wares. "See the pretty want to be girls," chants gray man in front of a ba tures female impersonat Everyone strains for a flesh through the open d ever, most keep going.

But the temparatur kept the debauchery d minimum this year. After all it's 38 degrees, who has fun

Maybe I'll go back next

First, some definitions

SHORT PEOPLE

GET YOU

Mardi Gras in New Orleans is many things. Natives can love it or hate it. They can build their social group around it, or leave town when that time comes around.

But no one in New Orleans ignores it. First some definitions: Carnival is the two weeks before Mardi Gras, when more than 50 parades are held all over the city, its suburbs and neighborhoods. Mardi Gras, or "Fat Tuesday" is the final day of that period-the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday. This year Mardi Gras was Feb. 7. Since it occurs 40 Lenten days before Easter, Mardi Gras can happen anytime in a six-week period in February and March. It hasn't started any earlier than this to use for a day, the word "gras", or fat is used as in the French phrase wes that have only black members.

The names of the krewes are mysfat is used as in the French phrase foie gras—or sinfully rich.

Mardi Gras is different from any other festival or parade in the counon by private clubs called "krewes." The sole reason for the krewes' existance is to stage parades and balls during Carnival.

These krewes are closed organizations. Their selectivity often is a reflection of the social status of its

Some of the top krewes are very year's date in about 50 years. exclusive. They have few Jews and no blacks. However, there are kre-tic and colorful: Rex, Bacchus, Zulu It describes the insanity per- (a black krewe), Endymion, Proteus, Nefertari, and Thoth for Krewes choose a King or try. Instead of being put on by city Queen, (sometimes both,) or some hall, or the fire department, or the other type of monarch, an Emperor American Legion, Mardi Gras is put or Pharoah. In some of the exclusive old krewes, the King's name is a se-

> Other krewes, like Endymion and Bacchus, have celebrity kings and Cheryl Ladd, of television's "Charlie's Angels," singer Wayne Newton, singer, and trumpet player Doc Severinson, were featured in the Endymion parade this year. Ed McMahon, Tonite Show cohost and beer spokesman, was the King of Bacchus.

> Battalion Photos by Glenna Whitley

As the parade passes in review, cheering thongs of people for trinkets to take home as souvenirs. Each parade had own distinguishable doubloon.

A clarinet player jazzes up Mardi Gras with "When the Saints Go Marching In" on one of the floats in the Venus parade.

Corps joins the festivities

By MICHELLE SCUDDER A&M organizations who'went to the celebration. mass to enjoy the festivities, but mainly worked to win awards in drill

The Ross Volunteers, Women's Drill Team, and Fish Drill Team all participated in Mardi Gras parades and activities.

"We had a good time at Mardi Gras," said John Stine, Fish Drill Team commander, "We had a yell the parade floats. It was pretty fun.

The Fish Drill Team placed first in the Tulane Invitational Drill Meet held this last weekend.

said he thinks their performance said the French atmosphere made Mardi Gras was fun for some, but may help the group regain the state a lot of hard work for a few Texas championship. The team had the A&M organizations who'went to the title from 1971 to 1976. The first of a three-meet competition for the state The Corps of Cadets came out in title will be held at the University of Texas on March 4.

The Ross Volunteers, also made their mark on the Mardi Gras scene by making their 27th consecutive appearance as the lead unit in the Rex Parade.

RV commander Bill Rademacher said Mardi Gras wasn't as wild as last year.

'The general concensus in New practice at Pat O'Briens, and col-lected beads and coins thrown from crazy Mardi Gras in a long time," Rademacher said. "It seemed to be due to the cold weather and the previous Super Bowl.'

However, Susan Graesser, com-Drill team adviser Leonard Gulig mander of the women's drill team,

'A lot of French culture can be learned in New Orleans," Graesser said. "We got to meet a lot of people and enjoy them. And we saw a lot of Aggies, there, too."

Women's Drill team marched in the Krewe of Jupiter parade, and participated in the Tulane Invitational Drill Meet on a noncompetitive status. They were graded on inspection and exhibition drill formation. The defending Texas champion women's team will also compete for the state cham-pionship in March. The U.S.S. Francis Marion, a troop transport currently docked at New Orleans, served as hotel to all three organizations while they were

