Gourmets hit food fair

By KAYCE GLASSE

A Food Fair and Talent Show was presented last night by the International Students Association as part of the International Week '78.

The food ranged from exotic cuisine such as Indonesian egg rolls and a French cake called "quatre" to chicken and dumplings and apple pie from the United States.

Everything was consumed quickly because there were foods to please any palate. The event was sold out Monday, the same day it was announced in the main corridor of the Memorial Student Center. There were originally 150 tickets, but about 270 people showed up to dine and stay for the talent show.

"I think it was definitely worth a dollar to get in," said Beth Miller, a sophomore animal science major.

Food from eleven countries were represented in the cooking samples.

Anthony Gibson, the president of ISA, was happy at the success of the fair and said he looks forward to it again next year.

Many countries were represented in the talent show as well as the food fair, as there was Bali dancing from Indonesia, Colombian folk songs, Indian folk dances, Scottish bagpipes, and Spanish Flamenco dancing.

The Latin Americans seemed to be the crowd favorites with the Colombians doing an encore after the show was over.

Barbara Dutton, a freshman from Washington D.C., was quite popular with her stylish Flamenco dancing.

The good of U.S.A. was represented by four young men singing in barbershop quartet style.

A&M-CS agree on water supply and transmission

Texas A&M University officials were authorized Tuesday to enter into an agreement with College Station on water supply and transmission.

The proposal was approved by the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents. Texas A&M will supply water to College Station for approximately three years in exchange for the city drilling a deep well at a site near the University's well field and providing a transfer line and appropriate ties to the university system the proposal said.

The well, expected to cost $720,000, would be in service before the peak demand months of 1979, said Howard Vestal, Texas A&M vice president for business affairs.

"For several years we have projected a requirement for a new well by about 1980," Vestal said.

"The city's proposal is advantageous to the university because we can realize the new well with any capital expenditure and the city completes its new well system, it will be connected with the University's system to provide a significant emergency back-up to our water system," said Vestal.

During the first year of the agreement the city will pay Texas A&M cents per 1,000 gallons, with a cent-per-1,000-gallon credit allowed for amortization on the cost of the well, Vestal said. In the years the charge per 1,000 gallons could be raised to cover the costs of production, with the credit factor remaining the same.
