

Tony Jones — city council, place 4

Tony Jones, 31, 1905 Comal, owner of Tony Jones Construction.

Are you in favor of the continued requirement of a conditional use permit for fraternities and sororities to build their own house?

The only types of construction that do not require the conditional use permit at this time are the single-family residences and duplexes. I would be open to discussion of consideration of alternate methods in these areas.

What roles should students of Texas A&M University play in city government?

All registered voters of the age of 18 and over have equal rights and responsibilities in city government.

Are you in favor of allowing the city to expand in an eastward direction even though that area lies in a flood plain?

I assume that you are referring to the recently annexed property located on the east side of the by-pass. The flood plain property that was included within that annexation was intended to control and limit any and all construction within those flood plain areas to eliminate any type of blockage or restrictions that would cause a water back-up within the city itself. All other properties are capable of being developed.

Are you in favor of the ward system? If so, what merits does it have? If not, what merits does the at large system have?

I think the ward system could be improved with a possibility of having a couple of at large positions instead of six wards.

Will you encourage further building of apartment complexes for students and how do you think this will affect the city in the next five to ten years?

Apartments are not built just to house the students, but to facilitate the growth of the city. At the present time, the City and University have possibly reached a leveling point as far as growth, and the apartments should only complement the needs of the people.

Do you think College Station needs a property tax increase? Would you consider construction of more recreational facilities?

These questions can possibly be answered together. Parks and recreational facilities are included within the proposed bond election of 1978 and were in the bond election of 1976. These facilities are to benefit all citizens of our community, and to have this benefit, some expenses are going to be incurred.

Do you see any problems with the current zoning code? Would you consider new areas for construction?

A strict control of zoning must be maintained to secure and preserve personal privacy and safety along with the regulation of a good traffic flow, and to create a livable community for the future.

'Thermodynamics' revised

The sixth edition of a thermodynamics textbook used at Texas A&M University for more than 40 years has been released by MacMillan Publishing Co.

Revisions were done by Clifford M. Simmang, a former Texas A&M mechanical engineering professor. "Thermodynamics" was first published in 1935, and was based on materials prepared for Texas A&M courses by the late Dr. Virgil M. Faires. Contributing to subsequent revisions and a second volume, "Problems on Thermodynamics," were Alexander Van Brewer and Simmang.

The Faires-Simmang "Thermodynamics" was considered the best thermodynamics textbook for the last 20 years. It has been used more than all other texts on the subject combined.

I am in favor of us trying to get a reversal in the participation of state money and local money. And the way I understand it, we have the majority of the burden right now. And if your evaluations were properly placed, and you do whatever needs doing, you can reverse this and have the state having the majority of the burden, which I think would be real good because a lot of other school districts are doing this. In fact, I think 75 percent of them in the state are doing this, and I don't know why we shouldn't be doing the same thing. Either we're spending too much money, or we're not applying for our appropriations properly, one or the other. But they are trying to just railroad some people onto the school board to achieve their specific purposes, which I don't think is proper.
