

Bellard's bunch practice for Maroon-White game

Setting the pace

Texas A&M's Arthur Williams, running in the Texas Relays last weekend, gives the Aggies the lead in the 1,600-meters relay preliminaries. The team was unable to compete in the finals, however, because Williams suffered a leg injury. He is expected to return to action this weekend for a meet between A&M, LSU and Baylor at Kyle Field.

Now past the halfway mark, Texas A&M footballers head toward the climax of spring training — the Maroon-White game that comes up at 7 p.m., Saturday, April 22 at Kyle Field.

Admission for that contest is $3 for adults and $1 for high school age and younger. A&M students get in on their I.D. cards. There will be no reserved seats.

Coach Emory Bellard has announced he'll divide the squad evenly for the game.

With the emphasis on "intensity", the squad has shown great progress during the first two weeks of practice. All-out, hell-for-leather effort has brought about tremendous collisions in the daily scrimmage sessions. And, the result is that the Aggies are getting tougher and tougher.

Following this week's practice, Bellard and his staff will divide the squad for the spring game. And, it should be an interesting breakdown.

Mike Mosley and David Beal, a couple of talented quarterbacks who'll be in their sophomore seasons next fall, likely will lead the two squads. Beal suffered a whiplash-type of neck sprain in last Friday's scrimmage but should be back in action sometime this week.

George Woodard and Eddie Hardin are the top fullbacks and they'll likely be on different squads. The same holds true for Curtis Dickey and Holly Wilson at left half and Adger Armstrong and David Brothers at right half.

The Aggies have been running both the Wishbone and "T" formation in spring drills and both will be utilized in the spring game.

Likely to miss the game because of injuries or recuperating from surgery are defensive tackles Johnnie Donahue and Gary Milligan, safety Kenneth Taylor, def. back Jay Dale, linebackers Randy Harvey and Lawton Carlton, def. end Herbert Booker and offensive guard mark Giamfortone. Some of them could be ready by game time, however.
