Farm credit tight

United Press International
CHICAGO — Farm credit is getting tighter because of higher demand for money and more stringent credit requirements, a study done by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago showed Tuesday.

The study surveyed banks and production credit associations in Indiana, Iowa, Colorado, Georgia, Minnesota, Montana and the six Plains states stretching from North Dakota to Texas.

Replies from both banks and PCAs indicated the loan refusal rate early this year was about two percentage points higher than normal, the bank said. Banks reported refusing 6 percent of the requests for new loans in the 75 days preceding the survey. PCAs refused 9 percent.

The report said most of the refusals probably represented requests from loan customers who already were in their debt carrying capacity.

"Nonetheless," it said, "the survey found that a small proportion of farmers that had been financing 1977 would not have qualified for such financing under conditions of this year."

Banks reported 3 percent of farm loans they granted would not have been granted last year. PCAs said they would have financed 4 percent of loans if the applications were received this year.

The bank said legislation in Congress might help hungry for credit to help drop in grain prices.

Both houses of Congress passed legislation expanding advising Farmers Home Administration loan programs and it conference committee will differences and the measure signed into law, the bank said.

The legislation contains provisions which would help individual farmers and those with their farms in limited parts and closed family corpora-

New car sales hit all-time high in May

United Press International
DETROIT — New car sales in the United States hit an all-time high of 1.15 million in May, rekindling industry predictions that 1978 will be a boom year for the automakers.

General Motors and Ford Motor Co. each posted their best sales month ever and led the domestic industry to cumulative sales of 962,985 units, up 11 percent over May 1977 figures.

Import car sales accounted for 194,000 of the industry total. Though down 15 percent from last year's record, it was the second best May ever for the imports.

"This performance gives added strength to our forecast of total U.S. industry sales of 15.5 million cars and trucks in the 1978 calendar year," GM Vice President Robert D. Burger said.

Ford Vice President Gordon B. MacKenzie said with "leading economic indicators up slightly and a record number of people holding jobs, we would expect strong car and truck sales to continue through the summer months."

GM's May sales of 547,327 units set a new industry record for any month. It also amounted to a 9.7 percent increase over May 1977 sales.

NATO forces can't match Soviet Union

United Press International
MIAMI — North American Treaty Organization forces cannot match the Soviet Union in chemical and biological weapons despite a buildup in NATO strength, according to Gen. Alexander Haig, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

Haig was asked at a news conference Monday about a reported increase in U.S. and NATO chemical warfare weapons. He said the build up has been going on for three years but still is "less than satisfactory."

The Soviets, Haig said, have been giving "great attention to their chemical-biological warfare capabilities, both in an offensive and defensive mode."

He said the United States and NATO had been hampered by a policy of "extreme restraint" in the development of both offensive and defensive chemical and biological weapons.

"We have improved somewhat, but we remain today essentially deficient to what I call a retaliatory offensive or deterrent capability," he said.

Haig refused to speculate on whether the Russians might use chemical or biological weapons, such as nerve gas, in case of war.

"I've got to be concerned not with Soviet intentions, but Soviet capabilities," he said. "And they have the capability today to launch extensive chemical biological offensive action against the West."

Resolution passes initial test

United Press International
WASHINGTON — A resolution to allow seven more years for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment has passed its first test in the full House Committee.

The resolution would provide a 14-year ratification period for the ERA, setting the final deadline for state legislative consideration at March 1986 instead of the original expiration date of March 1979.

The House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee approved the extension 4-3 and sent it to the full panel, which is expected to vote on it later this month.

Between now and then, supporters have their jobs cut out for them. The full committee is scheduled on the proposition, according to subcommittee chairman Rep. Edwards, D-Calif.

Edwards hopes the resolution can be found to move the ERA through the Judiciary Committee, but concedes it is a task since "a bunch of lawyers on the panel will be weighing in on the wording and legal ramifications of the extension."

It is a controversial proposition breaking the normal pattern, allowing only seven years for states to consider and accept constitutional amendments. Opponents call it a classic case of "changing the rules in the middle of the game."
