Authorities may expel Iraqi guards

United Press International
PARIS — French authorities Tuesday they expect to expel the Iraqi Embassy guards despite the diplomatic privileges as a result of the shootout at the Iraqi embassy that killed a French policeman and an Iraqi guard.

"There has been no decision, the assumption is that they will be expelled," a French foreign ministry source said. An expulsion order was expected today.

Two hundred policemen demonstrated at headquarters Tuesday to express sympathy with their colleague and to demand that three men be brought to trial.

The three, whose names have been released, were among up to 100 Iraqi guards who exchanged gunfire with police Monday just as eight-hour seizure of hostages at the Iraqi Embassy was ending.

Authorities said the guards could not be prosecuted because all have diplomatic immunity — secretaries of embassy and one attaché.

Behind the siege and shooting, Arab sources said, was an unclarified war between the PLO and Iraqi-based radical Palestinian militants.

Officials at police headquarters said the arrested gunman "probably" was the brother of Saïd Hamami, a PLO representative earlier this year in London.

The PLO has held Iraq responsible for Hammami's death, saying it was ordered by Palestinian leader Abu Nidal, a bitter foe of PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat.

Scharansky swap talks up in the air

United Press International
Negotiations are under way in Moscow and Washington and capitals to arrange a swap of Anatoly Scharansky, the Soviet dissident convicted of treason and sentenced to prison despite worldwide outcry, sources in the case said Tuesday.

A legal source said initial Carter administration gave a response "to a request to consider to arrange a trade" through Scharansky, who was sentenced in 1975 to 13 years in prison labor camps for treason and Soviet activities.

"But the view has changed, the source, who asked not identified.

"The negotiations are going a more or less private level, perhaps at a formal level. The discussion in Moscow and Washington and another capital, Vienna."

Scharansky, who was imprisoned for 16 months before his release in Moscow, was accused of treason, having CIA connections. President Carter, who championed the release of the Soviet dissident, said the charge was absurd and declared "Soviets knew" it was false.

Bomb kills navy chief's daughter

United Press International
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A powerful bomb detonated Tuesday in a apartment Tuesday killed the 15-year-old daughter of an Argentine member of the military junta and police guard and injured at least other people, police said.

The bomb, planted in a next to the apartment of Navy Staff Vice Adm. Armando Bruschini, exploded at 1:40 p.m., causing extensive damage to buildings.

At least four floors of the story building in which the explosion was followed out windows as far as block away by the force of the explosion.

An official spokesman said a bomb killed Lamburschini's daughter, Paula. Police said one of Bruschini's guards died and at least 12 other people were injured.
