THE BATTALION

Vol. 72 No. 4 16 Pages

Wednesday, September 6, 1978 College Station, Texas

News Dept. 845-2611 Business Dept. 845-2611

Home Sweet Home? Some students are finding A&M a home away from home. Check it out on page 8.

Going for a ringer

'Roots' may have caused

resentment, study shows

nificant impact.

of then and now.

his ancestry - showed "Roots" had a sig-study something to feel proud about," said Stanley, a black graduate student who was principal investigator for the project. "It created a link between the black cultures

He said the negative impact of the series

"Tempers were running fairly high about that time," he said.

was mostly a temporary reaction.

"Roots gave the black people in our Enjoying some old-fashioned recreation, Mark Willis takes deadly aim before pitching a horseshoe. Willis, a summer journalism graduate from Texas A&M University, was pitching horseshoes outside a drinking establishment near the Texas A&M campus.

n history, made blacks proud about ng black, but also increased resentment

inst whites, according to a study by as A&M University sociologists re-

The rebroadcast is running on network

he two sociologists, Bill Stanley and William Kuvlesky, spent 15 months viewing black women in rural Texas er the series was aired Jan. 23-30, 1977.

ported on the eve of the series rebroad-

on this week

Sadat wants reason in talks

United Press International ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, arriving for crucial Middle East peace talks, said Tuesday the time for "worn out ideas" is over and "reason" must prevail in his discussions this week with President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem

"Together," said Sadat, "we shall over-

Arriving in an Egyptair Boeing 707 at Andrews Air Force Base approximately two hours before Begin, Sadat, dressed in a dark suit, was welcomed by Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Security was heavy, but crowds of flagwaving wellwishers ringed the fence near the tarmac as Sadat's jet touched down. After briefly acknowledging the crowd, Sadat explained how he views the role of the United States in the upcoming summit at the Camp David presidential retreat.

"All along," he said, "we have held the view that this nation is the most qualified to be a full partner in the peace process. Your heritage is unique and so is your global responsibility.

"We come here at a crucial crossroads. The challenge is tremendous, but we have no choice except to accept the challenge. We cannot afford to fail the hopes of nation's all over the world.

"No one," he continued, "has the right to block the road to peace. This is no time for maneuver and worn out ideas."

Carter, in a solemn mood, settled into Camp David more than 24 hours before his high-level guests.

Leaving the White House Monday, he warned: "Compromises will be mandatory. Without them, no progress can be ex-

"My own role will be that of a full partner, not trying to impose the will of the United States on others but searching for common ground on which agreements can be reached and searching for exchanges of compromise that are mutually advantageous to all nations involved," he said.

Aides said the U.S. objective is to break through a number of obstacles at the top political level. If this can be done, then Begin and Sadat would send new instructions to lower level negotiators who will carry on the talks in weeks ahead.

Under a virtual media blackout, the summit participants hope to hold exhaustive discussions of the issues.

"We just wanted to go where the tele-phone doesn't ring," said one top U.S. of-

More arrests

The current violence in Lebanon may also be reviewed by the three leaders although it is not a formal agenda item, offi-

Carter summoned ambassadors Samuel Lewis from Israel and Herman Eilts from Egypt to assist. Also on the U.S. delegation are Dr. Zbigniew Brzezinski, presidential adviser on national security; Secretary of State Cyrus Vance; William Quandt of the National Security Council; special presiden-tial Middle East emmissary Alfred Atherton; Harold Saunders, assistant secretary of state for Near East Affairs, and White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Vice President Walter Mondale will be in charge of the executive branch in Carter's absence but probably also will visit

The administration has been generally silent about U.S. proposals that may be put forward to encourage a breakthrough.

Speculation has centered on a U.S. security treaty with Israel or stationing of U.S. troops in the Middle East as part of a peace-keeping force. Both would require congressional review and approval.

Steaks, gift will highlight banquet honoring Teague

By CANDICE HILL

Fourteen-ounce New York steaks will grace the banquet honoring Olin E. "Tiger" Teague on Sept. 16 in Duncan Dining Hall. An estimated $10,000 gift also will be presented to Teague.

The representative will be retiring this year after more than three decades in Congress.

"I expect the gift to cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, probably," said Steve Pringle, assistant to the president's group without regard to social or economic

Three out of four respondents in the study experienced increased feelings of racial pride, and slightly more than half said "Roots" caused them more negative feel-

Kuvlesky pointed out that the study co-status, the researcher said.

ings about whites, Stanley said.

But Pringle is not revealing what it is. He said that Teague might read The Bat-talion and would find out what gift is Tickets for the banquet are being sold for $25 each. The money will pay for the meals and for Teague's gift. Extra money will be put into a Texas A&M scholarship in Teague's name. About 600 tickets have been sold so far, but Pringle estimated that 1,200 people will attend the dinner.

The dinner for Olin Teague has been cancelled, a spokesman for President Miller's office reported early today.

Astronaut Joe Allen has been added to the program of speakers at the banquet. He will discuss Teague's interest in space and science. Allen is associate administrator for the congressional liaison at NASA. He also recently joined the space shuttle team.

Three other areas of Teague's interest will be discussed at the banquet. U.S. House of Representatives Majority Leader Jim Wright will discuss Teague's 32-year congresssional career. Former veterans affairs official, Oliver Meadows, will discuss Teague's military interests. Teague's interests in education, especially his contributions to Texas A&M will be discussed also. Leon Jaworski will be the master of Letters of appreciation are being sent to Box OET and they will be presented to Teague at the banquet. President Carter, former President Gerald Ford and former first lady Ladybird Johnson are expected to send letters. About 200 letters have been received.

likely in strike

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Opposition leaders charged Tuesday that President Anastasio Somoza's forces already have arrested almost 700 opponents in a nationwide crackdown against a general strike, but the government threatened more ar-

The opposition Conservative Party said 75 political and business opposition leaders and 600 civilians were arrested throughout Nicaragua on suspicion of aiding the 12-day strike aimed at ousting Somoza, whose family has ruled the Central American nation of 2.4 million people for 41 years.

"They are trying to reduce the strength of the strike," by arresting opponents, said Eduardo Chamorro, political secretary of the Conservative party and a member of

The strike started in the provinces Aug. 25 following the successful Sandinista commando operation at the National Palace. Business leaders say the strike is 80 percent effective throughout the nation and that some businessmen are prepared to continue it for three months.

The National Guard announced Sunday it had arrested 200 "agitators," and Presidential Press Secretary Rafael Cano said Monday persons advocating the government's overthrow "are liable to be arrested, are being arrested and will continue to be arrested.'

Congressman Chamorro said those arrested Monday included Adolfo Calero, the Notre Dame-educated Coca-Cola manager in Managua; Pedro Quintanilla, a lawyer and member of a splinter group within Somoza's Liberal Party; Hernaldo Zuniga, a lawyer from the city of Masaya and leader of the anti-Somoza Broad Opposition Front.

Also arrested were Santiago Rivas, a Conservative leader in Matagalpa; Noel Rivas, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce; Oscar Tiran, a Conservative Party leader from Leon.

When asked how long the strike would last, Manuel Jose Torres, president of the National Development Institute, one of the key groups behind the strike said, "We know of a lot of businessmen who have taken measures for three months.

Government radio stations Monday night stepped up appeals to workers, who are being paid during the work stoppage, to return to work.

"Workers, don't lend yourself to the political game. Go to work. Don't support this political strike," one announcer said.

The manager of Managua's biggest shopping center, Oreste Romero Rojas, said 78 percent of 200 establishments in the center were closed Monday.

More than 150 poor people lined up at the government's National Institute of Foreign and Domestic Trade in downtown

Managua to buy beans, rice and corn.
One old woman said food prices at her local market had increased 50 percent in the last two weeks. "We are going hungry, no one can afford the prices," she said.

Ice carving cold business

Ninety percent work and ten percent ta-lent is the way J.W. Maynard describes ice carving. Some people would disagree.

Maynard, who has been at Texas A&M University for five years as the assistant director of food service auxiliaries, learned the art of ice carving 17 years ago at a chef's seminar in Houston.

Since then, Manmard has done more than 30 ice carvings a year. Each carving Maynard, who does the ice carvings in the Memorial Student Center basement, uses a five-prong ice pick and a wood carving instrument to shape the 300-pound blocks of ice.

The ice carvings made by Maynard are used at buffet dinners held at Texas A&M. The carvings can be used several times and are stored in the MSC basement freezer at 10 degrees below zero.

Maynard taught classes in gourmet cooking and quality cooking at Texas A&M, but he is not teaching any classes this semester. Maynard attended Wayland Baptist College, did post-graduate work at Cornell University, and recieved his master's degree from Southwestern Theological Seminary.