Hargrove traded to San Diego

United Press International
ARLINGTON — The Texas Rangers Wednesday traded five-year first baseman Mike Hargrove, who slumped to .251 with 17 errors in 1978, to San Diego for Oscar Gamble, an outfielder with a seven-figure income and seven home runs last season.

The deal also sent infielder Kurt Bevacqua and minor league catcher Bill Fahey to the Padres in exchange for catcher Dave Roberts and an amount of cash officially undisclosed but openly discussed as $300,000.

Hargrove, 29, weary of rumors of the deal for three weeks, said he would "love to stay in Texas" (his home state) but was looking forward to playing for the Padres. He said the key to the trade was the money Texas received.

"The Rangers need the money, that's the only thing I can figure," said Hargrove, a career .303 hitter until last season's disaster.

Hargrove said the Rangers suffered from discipline problems and lack of confidence in manager Bill Hunter during the stormy 1978 season.

"You can't blame Billy," Hargrove said of the team's second-place finish. "He didn't run and throw and hit the ball. But I don't think Billy had a good year managing. I don't think he was same kind of manager this year as last. I really couldn't figure it out either. He didn't seem to be the same Billy Hunter. Of course, me hitting .250 could have affected that."

Hunter, in his first full season with Texas, was fired before the last game of the year and replaced by coach Pat Corrales.

Hargrove was part of the Rangers 1978 infield collapse, dropping from a career batting average of .303 to .251. He also committed 17 errors, as many as second baseman Bump Wills, who slumped to .250 after a rookie season in which he hit .287. Shortstop Bert Campaneris, despite playing in only 95 games, committed 20 errors, hit .186 and lost his job to rookie Nelson Norman. At third base, Toby Harrah fell to a .229 average with 12 homers after a .263 season with 27 homers in 1977.

"I've given Texas four good years out of five," Hargrove said. "One bad year and I'm gone. You wonder why me, why not somebody else who hasn't contributed a whole lot?"

Hargrove said Hunter struggled particularly with the pitching staff, going with some hurlers too long and pulling others too quickly. Also Hunter never seemed in control of the team after arguing with Dock Ellis on the team bus about the pitcher's drinking practices.

But Hargrove said the overall problem was elusive.

"I didn't know during the season and really haven't come up with a solution yet. There were four or five of who had bad years. When you have starters who have as bad a year as we did, it's tough to win. It's really a tribute to the talent on the ballclub that we won 87 games and finished second. I'm including myself as one who had a terrible year."

"We might have won it had even a couple of those guys had good years. The Rangers have a helluva chance to win the thing in '79. I say from the bottom of my heart. But the Rangers need to get who they've got. If they solve problems by getting rid of some some other people then they stick with the team they have. I to see them break it up.

"Our team never did get last till the last three weeks of the I think it needed time to get around. I don't know what that way."

Hargrove said the frequent by owner Brad Corbett during past three years left the impression with many players that they're on to produce and if they're on the trading block.

"I hope they leave that team now," he said. "They've got talent, a good ballclub. I could be last one to be traded, but who knows with Brad because he's very impulsive, an impulsive son."

"Sometimes you have to want they (management) know they're doing and other times seem to be psychic the way things. But I'm glad I've got and they've got theirs."

UH prepares for Hog

United Press International
HOUSTON — Southwest Conference co-leader Houston worked out in the Astrodome for 90 minutes Wednesday in getting ready to take on the No. 11 ranked Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday.

The Cougars, who share the conference lead with Texas, emphasized goalking and special team work.

"It may be homecoming, but I think our kids would be ready to play Arkansas if it was in the parking lot in the dead of summer," said Coach Bill

Yeoman. "Arkansas is a very fine team. I really think that our youngsters will play very, very hard and they had better."

Houston has never beaten Arkansas in conference play. When the Cougar's won the conference title in 1976 they lost to the Razorbacks 14-7 at Rice Stadium and last year Arkansas rolled over Houston 34-0.

AUSTIN — Texas Longhorn coach Fred Akers Wednesday listed offensive guard Craig Rider and defensive end Ron Bones as stars for Saturday's game against Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

Rider suffered a bruised elbow and Bone injured an elbow against Arkansas last week. Guy Sellers in Rider's position while Williams was at defensive end.

Akers said the team worked pass defense Wednesday in preparation for SMU's premier quarterback Mike Ford.

"Ford has good protection but can scramble too," Akers said. "Usually the ball is thrown by (the defense) becomes a problem. Akers also said the Mustangs have good receivers, including Tom Tolbert, and can run the ball as well as pass."

Texas currently is co-leading conference along with Houston.

FORT WORTH — Texas Christian University coach F.A. Wednesday put the Horned Lizard through what he called "drills" in preparation for Saturday's homecoming game against Baylor.

"I have to be pleased with what we saw," Dry said. "We're getting of our injured players back and helps make the whole picture better."

"They're not quite back to speed yet, but it's the best I've seen them in a while. They'll be ready if we need them Saturday."

Campus Interviews for TI Central Research Laboratories

What You Need

You should have an MS or PhD degree in one of the following:
Chemistry
Computer Science
Electrical Engineering
Materials Science
Mechanical Engineering
Physics

What We Do

TI's six Central Research Laboratories ensure the timely availability of technologies required by present and future business opportunities.

This involves (1) discovering, identifying and evaluating new scientific phenomena likely to generate inventions and new products, and (2) determining and developing the technologies required for new business opportunities.

The six facilities include:

- The Systems and Information Sciences Laboratory
- The Advanced Components Laboratory
- The Materials Characterization Laboratory & Facilities
- The Advanced Technology Laboratory
- The CCD Technology Laboratory
- The Physical Sciences Research Laboratory

Areas of Activity

- Materials Preparation/Crystal Growth
- Materials Characterization
- Component Development, including:
Charge Coupled Devices
Magnetic Bubbles
Surface Acoustic Wave Devices
Infrared Sensors
Semiconductor Logic and Memory Devices
Liquid Crystal and Electrochromic Displays
Microwave Devices

Process Development, including:

- Electron Beam Patterning
- X-ray Lithography
- Plasma Processing, including:
Chemical Vapor Deposition
Ion Implantation
- Systems Development
Computer Systems
Speech Systems
Memory Systems

Rockets win

United Press International
HOUSTON — Mike Newlin off the bench after missing the Houston Rockets' first five games sparked his team to a 106-101 victory over the New York Knicks Wednesday night.

Newlin scored 15 points, handed out nine assists — including seven in the fourth quarter. Tonjanovich was high scorer for Houston with 23 points and Murphy added 21 before fouling late in the game.

Spencer Haywood was high man for New York with 24 points. Marvin Webster had 21 points and Williams 18.

The Rockets ran off eight points to take 10-2 only to see New York go on a 14-6 burst for a lead. Dwight Jones' layup put Houston in front 23-22 after one quarter.

The victory was the Rockets' in six games while New York's three-game winning streak ended and drops to 33.
