Bryan to reward crime information

By LYLE LOVETT
Battalion Reporter

The Bryan City Council passed an ordinance Monday providing $1,000 rewards for information leading to arrests and convictions for crimes committed in the city.

The rewards will apply to felony offenses of burglary, robbery and rape, and will not be available to peace officers, private security workers or victims of the crimes.

This was the first reading of the ordinance. It will go into effect 30 days after its second reading Nov. 27.

The council also voted to continue the city sales tax on utilities. The state utilities tax was repealed by the Texas Legislature last session, but cities have the option to continue the municipal tax.

The council also adopted a traffic engineering study submitted by Traffic Engineers Inc. for traffic control planning in Bryan. The study includes suggestions for spotlight placement and roadway construction, and will be used as a guide for future traffic improvements.

In other action, the council voted to allocate $5,100 to the Arts Council of Brazos Valley for fiscal year 1978-79. The funding comes from the city hotel and motel tax.
