Schizophrenic found innocent

United Press International

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A man whom psychologists said had 10 separate personalities Monday was found innocent by reason of insanity of rape, kidnapping and robbery charges.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge Jay Flowers found William Milligan, 23, Lancaster, Ohio, innocent on three counts of rape, three of kidnapping and three of robbery. One rape count was dismissed.

Flowers, who heard the case after Milligan's attorney waived a jury trial, had received a supplemental report from the South West Community Mental Health Center that upheld the judge's earlier ruling that Milligan was competent to stand trial.

"He is competent to stand trial and he can understand the charges and assist in his defense," said Flowers. Milligan has been undergoing therapy at the Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital, where doctors say his personalities have been "fused," enabling him to stand trial.

Dr. Cornelia Wilbur, Lexington, Ky., an authority on personality disorders and the psychiatrist who treated "Sybil," the subject of a bestselling book, is convinced Milligan could never fake the complicated memories and stories of his body-mates.

Skates replace her shoes

She's rollin' round the town

United Press International
DENVER — Four years ago, Jilene Freed laced up her first pair of roller skates. Today, she owns no other shoes and whisks around the city drawing smiles and amazed looks.

"A car totally blocks you off. On skates, life is not passing me by. When I go skating by it makes people smile. A lot want to talk about when they rollerskated," said the 30-year-old Freed.

She is a native of Los Angeles, where rolling has become an accepted, if uncommon, alternative method of transportation. Since then, she has barely taken her skates off and claims she has no other shoes.

"I do have a pair of old boots," she said, while listing the advantages of being roller-borne.

"No one's going to steal them. When I go down hills, I can practice my skiing. I hope I'll still be skating when I'm 80," she says.

She claims other advantages of skating include not contributing to pollution, no gasoline payments, general physical conditioning and not being shut off inside a car.

She rolls to business appointments, lunch, to and from work, shopping and friends' homes, but the path in Denver is not always smooth.

"Being a pioneer, you have to come up against a lot of criticism. But it makes you strong within yourself," she said of merchants who have barred her roller-outfitted-feet from entering.
