

Parents fight ban on Laetrile for son

United Press International
BOSTON — Attorneys for the parents of Chad Green, who fled to Mexico in defiance of a court order barring Laetrile treatments for their leukemia-stricken son, Monday appealed to a higher court to get the order revoked.

Gerald and Diane Green last week took their 3-year-old son to a Laetrile clinic in Tijuana, Mexico, ignoring the order of Plymouth Superior Court Judge Guy Volterra prohibiting treatments with the controversial drug.

The couple's attorney, George Donovan, this morning filed the necessary papers in Massachusetts Appeals Court, arguing Volterra's order should be lifted.

Rockefeller ashes buried Monday

United Press International
NORTH TARRYTOWN, N.Y. — About 50 members of the Rockefeller family stood silently Monday as 5-year-old Nelson A. Rockefeller read a farewell message to his father, whose ashes were buried in a private cemetery.

"Dad, we know how much you love us. We know you know how much we're going to miss you," the boy was quoted as saying by family spokesman Hugh Morrow. "Your spirit will live with us forever."

"Dad, we're not saying goodbye, but until we meet again."

After the boy's farewell, Morrow said, his uncle, Laurence Rockefeller, 68, stepped forward and said,

"Nelson, you've spoken for all of us."

The private services were held at a family cemetery in North Tarrytown several miles from the Rockefellers' Pocantico Hills estate.

Morrow said a memorial service for Rockefeller would be held Friday at Riverside Church. Among those scheduled to speak, he said, were The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., the other surviving Rockefeller brother, David; and Dr. Henry Kissinger. The Rev. William Sloane Coffin will preside.

The body of the 70-year-old former vice president and four-time governor of New York was cremated Sunday, a day earlier than originally planned, family spokesman George Taylor said.
