Spiders as V-Day gifts

Fanged Cupids in style

United Press International
SAN DIEGO — The Puppy World pet store chain is gearing up for its annual Valentine's Day sale of furry creatures, to be given to those caught in the web of love. But they're not puppies. They're tarantulas.

The stores offered the poisonous spiders last year and sold out three days before Valentine's Day. This year the order was doubled to 150 spiders and a spokeswoman says the rush has already begun.

"They're for the person who has everything," said Sandy Lunt. "We all know someone we would like to give a tarantula to — like a boss."

They sell for $5.99 each and come with a special Valentine's Day spider-care booklet.

The first trick the domesticated arachnid must learn, according to the booklet, is "poise: Simply place a large book on top of the spider's head and make it walk in circles for 20 minutes."

To housebreak it, the book says, "make newspapers easily available and 'Whenever you find a web, bring the spider to the shake your finger in its face out: 'No! No! No! This is spider!'"

The tarantula bite is usually less, the booklet concludes, but mostly results in a painless puncture wound of the face than the toxin.
