Bunuel film set to show Monday

By LORI MAYER
Battalion Reporter

The Memorial Student Center Arts Committee will present Luis Bunuel's "That Obscure Object of Desire" at Rudder Theater Monday.

The movie is an updated version of Pierre Louys's short novel "The Woman and the Puppet." Bunuel tells the story of a businessman named Mathieu who is obsessed with a young Spanish dancer, Conchita.

Conchita repeatedly offers to give up her virginity to Mathieu and withdraws the offer, tormenting him. Using two actresses to portray Conchita, Bunuel tries to show that extreme desire can turn reality into fantasy.

At 79, Bunuel has made 34 movies, beginning with "Un Chien Andalou" in 1928 and ending with "That Obscure Object of Desire." "Un Chien Andalou," which will be shown April 30, shocked audiences with its opening sequence — a scene of an eye being cut open.

Bunuel has always shocked his viewers with his films. He was exiled from his native Spain at an early age because of his films.

The Arts Committee will also show a short film, "Bridges Go Round," directed by Stan Brakage, later this semester.
