Aggies to view state government

By KIPP SHACKELFORD
Battalion Reporter
Have you ever wondered what goes on at the state capitol or wanted to meet and talk with legislators? The Memorial Student Center Political Forum committee is providing this opportunity for students through a government-in-action trip to Austin planned for this Thursday.

The purpose of the trip is to view first-hand many facets of Texas government.

Only 18 students have signed up for the trip.

The group will leave the MSC at 6:30 a.m. Thursday. Beginning at 9 a.m. participants will hear speeches and be permitted to talk with several legislators, including Speaker of the House Bill Clayton, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Chief Justice Joe Greenhill and Secretary of State George Strake.

Later, several members of the House of Representatives, including Bill Presnal, Don Rains, Sue McBee, Wayne Peveto and Gerald Geistweidt, will speak at the luncheon.

After the luncheon, students will return to the capitol for a guided tour.

That afternoon, the group will talk with Governors' Aide Allen Clark, and Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace.

The group will return to the MSC around 5:30 p.m.

Greg Krause, coordinator of the Austin trip, said Political Forum began making plans for the trip early in March by writing representatives and setting up specific meeting times.

"Many students are uninformed about current issues in state politics, so we're trying to give them an overall awareness of what is going on and how decisions are made in our government," Krause said.

Krause said he had hoped more students would participate, but said he feels the smaller group size may enable the students to become more easily acquainted with the speakers.

Students who are interested in the trip may contact Political Forum in Room 216 of the MSC.

Who are the Bahá'ís?

Bahá'ís are members of an independent religion founded by Bahá'u'lláh. The Bahá'í Faith has followers in over 300 countries and territories, from India to Bolivia, from Ireland to Tasmania, from Sweden to Japan.

Bahá'ís believe in the unity of God and accept the divine origin of religions, including Judaism, Christianity, Islam, and Buddhism.

Bahá'ís advocate the unity of nations and races, the establishment of universal peace, the equality of the sexes, and the abolition of all forms of prejudice.

Bahá'ís propose the adoption of an international auxiliary language, the abolition of barriers to international, economic and cultural exchange, and the development of institutions that would ensure lasting peace.

Bahá'ís abstain from partisan politics, refuse to assume hostile attitudes or to engage in violence, emphasizing instead the need to spiritualize humanity and to apply moral standards to institutions as well as to individuals.

ENGLAND + JOHN FORD COLEY will present a brief introduction to the Bahá'í Faith and answer your questions about it on Friday, April 6, at 10:30 p.m. (following their concert), in Rm. 200 Harrington. Sponsored by THE BAHÁ'Í CLUB OF TAMU.
