

Richard Bach produces another meditative book

The same man whose imagination brought us Jonathan Livingston Seagull has come up with another intimate examination of human feelings. Richard Bach has finished a new book titled There's No Such Place As Far Away, which began a decade ago as a personal communication between friends who were separated by time and space. The publishers were so charmed with this new meditation that they decided to print it and share it with Bach fans everywhere.

Basically, the book poses the question, "Can miles truly separate you from those you love?" Those who experienced Jonathan will recognize these thoughts and value them.

The book will be published on April 27. Meanwhile, Bach is at work on another book.

Below are two examples of the beautiful illustrations by Ron Wegen.
