Decontrol issue is factor

Kennedy, Carter rift widens

United Press International
WASHINGTON — The windfall profits tax is shaping up as the latest — and possibly most bitter — issue to split President Carter and his potential rival for the presidential nomination, Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Kennedy has broken with Carter before, over national health insurance and budget priorities, but the current dispute over oil price decontrol and how to tax the oil companies' profits left a visibly angry Carter and a stone-faced Kennedy trading charges and counter-charges Monday.

In a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in New York, Kennedy accused the administration of giving in to "the overbearing power of the oil lobby."

"First, it has intimidated the administration into throwing in the towel without even entering the ring on oil price decontrol," Kennedy said.

"And second, it has also intimidated the administration into submitting a token windfall tax that is no more than a transparent fig leaf over the vast profits the industry will reap."

When a reporter related Kennedy's statement to Carter at his televised and broadcast news conference, the president looked angry and said, "That's just a lot of baloney."

"Everybody knows that decontrol is mandated in the present law," Carter said, referring to the clause in last year's energy act requiring an end to price controls in September 1981. Carter's phaseout accelerates the process and brings higher prices a bit faster.

As for the windfall profits tax, Carter said, "I'm always amenable to proposals made by Senator Kennedy to make the laws fairer or more stringent."

Kennedy said, however, he will challenge Carter on issues which they disagree on and support him when they agree.

Voting rights for felons bill dies in Senate

United Press International
AUSTIN — A bill that would have allowed convicted felons who have served their time and are off probation the right to vote failed to pass the Senate State Affairs Committee Monday.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, would change the state's election code by removing the section which prevented people who were convicted of any felony — except those restored to full citizenship or pardoned — from voting.

It would have prevented all those who are in jail, on parole, under mandatory supervision, or on probation as a result of a felony conviction from voting. The bill also changed the wording of provisions which prevent "idiots and lunatics" and "all paupers supported by the county" from voting.

Committee Chairman Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, the only one to speak against the bill, said he did not want to give criminals in his district — which includes the state prison at Huntsville — the right to vote.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Clay Smothers, D-Dallas, previously passed in the House.
