Cousineau cream of college crop

United Press International
NEW YORK — Tom Cousineau, a hard-hitting linebacker from Ohio State called by his former coach, Woody Hayes, "the best conditioned athlete I've ever coached," was selected by the Buffalo Bills to open the 1979 National Football League draft.

Cousineau is only the second pick in the draft since it was instituted in 1936. Atlanta took Tommy Nobis of Texas as the top choice in 1966.
Cousineau, a 6-foot-3, 227-pound native of Fairview Park, Ohio, is a two-time All-America who led the Buckeyes in tackles last season with 227, 125 of them unassisted. He was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player in the 1977 Orange Bowl game against Colorado and the Defensive Player of the Game in the 1979 Hula Bowl.

Kansas City followed by selecting Mike Bell, a 6-5, 265-pound defensive tackle from Colorado State. Bell, the Lineman of the Year in the Western Athletic Conference, has been rated by his coaches above former teammate Al Baker, who was NFC Rookie of the Year last season with Detroit.

Cincinnati, on its first of two picks in the opening round, made a surprising choice by taking quarterback Jack Thompson, the "Throwin' Samoan" from Washington State.

The Chicago Bears followed Cincinnati by choosing Dan Hampton of Arkansas. Buffalo picked Jerry Butler of Clemson and Baltimore followed with Barry Kraus of Alabama.

The rest of the first round went like this:

The New York Giants, Phil Simms, Morehead State; St. Louis, Ottis Anderson, Miami (Fla.);
