Roloff gets state's closure order

United Press International
CORPUS CHRISTI — Lester Roloff and several hundred Bible-waving, hymn-singing supporters Wednesday peacefully greeted state officials carrying court orders to shut down three unlicensed children's homes operated by the fiery evangelist.

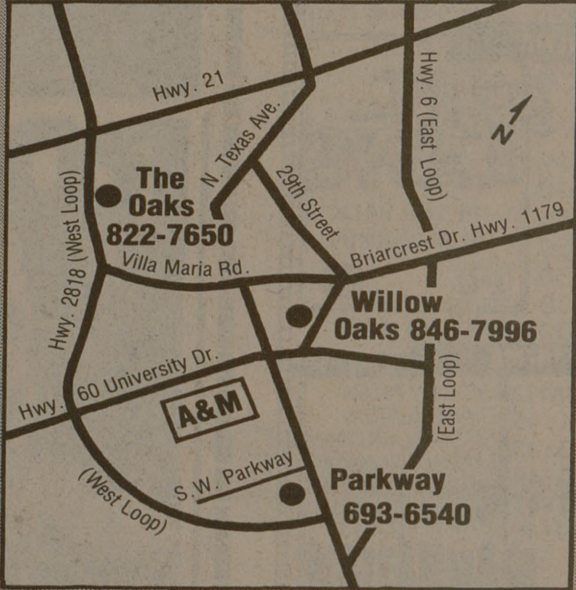

But the controversial evangelist met Department of Human Resources assistant commissioner Marlin Johnston and Texas Department of Public Safety Capt. Hugh Pogue — the vanguard of 140 welfare officials and state police sent to south Texas to handle the closure — at the entrance of People's Church and offered to negotiate.

As the 250 supporters — including 154 ministers from several states — stood in front of the chapel and sang hymns, Roloff drove the two officials to his colonial style home located behind the building.

subject of the confrontation — remained sequestered inside the church.

and the evangelist's supporters lost their last ditch appeal Tuesday.

FBI working on Wood case

United Press International
HOUSTON — The FBI Wednesday confirmed it was asking questions in the Houston area in its investigation of the May 29 assassination of U.S. District John H. Wood Jr., but denied that it had any suspect.

"We are conducting inquiries into the killing of Judge Wood. We can make no comment as regard to name. There have been no arrest warrants," KTRH Radio quoted FBI agent John McCullough as saying.

However, an FBI spokesman termed "absolutely false" other reports that a man named in an all points bulletin issued by Houston police might be a "suspect" in the slaying of Wood, who was killed by a single .243-caliber bullet to the back as he entered his automobile to drive to the federal courthouse in San Antonio.

"We're plodding right along, still working and interviewing some people, but as far as a pickup order or arrest warrant or search warrant, absolutely not," the FBI spokesman added.

A team of FBI agents sent to Texas to look into the Wood killing have interviewed numerous persons from San Antonio, Houston, El Paso and other cities in their investigation, but so far none of them has been termed a suspect.

An FBI artist has compiled six composite drawings of persons, based on descriptions from residents of Wood's apartment

Houston voting rights dispute is discussed

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Houston Mayor Jim McConn, city councilmen and aides to three Houston congressmen met with Justice Department officials Wednesday in an attempt to settle a voting rights dispute that has blocked two city elections.

The case came to a head on June 11 when Drew Days III, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, ruled Houston's annexation of mostly white residential areas has diluted minority voting strength in city elections.

Days ruled unless Houston changes its current at-large system of electing city officials, persons in the newly annexed areas will not be permitted to vote.

Clements' energy cut criticized

United Press International
AUSTIN — A Central Texas legislator Wednesday criticized Gov. Bill Clements for trimming $1.7 million for alternate energy research and development from the appropriations bill.

Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, said the governor vetoed the funds for energy research while approving a $1.2 million appropriation to restore the Governor's Mansion.

"I would like to ask the citizens of Texas which of those two is a priority item: sufficient energy for their cars and homes, or a newly decorated mansion for their governor who is running his office on a theme of austerity in government spending?" he said.

Kubiak, who authored several bills during the just completed legislative sessions dealing with research and production of gasohol, said Clements' vetoes would set alternate energy research back at least two years in Texas at a time when the nation is suffering the effects of a fuel shortage.

"Gasohol is definitely an answer. At least it's a 10 percent reduction in what we use and at least a 30 percent reduction in what we import," he said.

Gasohol is a mixture of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline and is being marketed in a few Midwestern states.

Clements vetoed a $2.5 million appropriation for Texas A&M duct gasohol research and development. The governor also vetoed $900,000 for the Center for Studies at the University of Austin. The University of El Paso lost $269,000 for energy research and $100,000 for a conduct survey of uranium deposits.

"I am disappointed, at least," Kubiak said about the act — a slap in the face.

Tire plans flat

United Press International
AUSTIN — Michelin Corp. has decided against building a tire manufacturing plant in May to purchase the north of the city limits, students of the area formed a group called "Citizens to Keep Austin" and opposed the plan.

The plan would increase traffic in the residential character neighborhood.

They also protested air pollution until Michelin officials flew eight representatives to the group to a similar protest in South Carolina.

While the neighborhood group was pleased with Michelin's announcement, Chamber of Commerce Premier Ald were chagrined.

"I'm deeply disappointed by today's announcement," said Jim Archer said Tuesday. "We decide to locate elsewhere will mean Austin will be one of the most significant economic stimuli to come our way."

The plant would have employed about 1,800 persons.
