Ags seek revenge in Waco

By MARK PATTERSON
Battalion Sports Staff

It could have been called Black Saturday when the Baylor Bears stormed the Aggies 24-6 on Kyle Field last year. It turned out to be one of the most pivotal games in Texas A&M football history. The repercussions from the loss lasted until Tuesday of the next week when then head football coach and athletic director, Emory Bellard resigned. It was the second straight loss for the Aggies in a matter of four days. The exit of Bellard gave then A&M offensive coordinator Tom Wilson his shot at the brass ring.

The Aggies, under the direction of Wilson, have never faced a Baylor football team. Baylor head coach Grant Teaff will have the Bears ready for the conference opener for both schools. Wilson will have the Aggies bandaged and ready as well. "The team realizes that this is the first conference game of the year," Wilson said. "I don't anticipate any problems with motivation."

"We're ready to play. I have been very pleased with the team's progress this week."

What has displeased Wilson is the number of injuries that have lingered with the squad. What were originally thought of as minor bumps and bruises have been stubborn to shake off.

"Curtis (Dickey) hasn't been able to work out all week," Wilson said of the tailback who gained 148 yards in the season opener. "His shoulder is still bothering him and his status for being at full speed by Saturday is questionable."

"If he can't go, Johnny Hector will start in his place. I have no qualms about starting a freshman at that position."

Temple Aday was listed as the No. 2 tailback for the BYU game but Wilson said the sophomore has been slowed this week with a back injury.

"Temple's questionable right now. If he's not at game condition, we'll go with someone who's healthy."

One player who had his red cross removed this week is fullback George Woodard. Coming off his best week of practice this year, according to Wilson, Woodard was elevated to the No. 2 fullback position for the Baylor game.

"Woodard has looked better in practice this week than he has since the injury," Wilson said. "His leg isn't totally well yet, but he could see spot action this week."

"His timing's not where it should be and he's not to the point where he can take on the whole role of his position. But if the situation calls for it, he'll play against Baylor."

Wilson also made some offensive line changes this week. David Bandy moved from backup center to starting center. Bandy will replace Preston Dickson who started against Brigham Young last week. And Kyle Golson has switched from backup tackle to starting guard.

Wilson had hoped that guard Flint Risien would be able to return from a knee injury this week but the knee has been slow to mend and Risien will be held out of action again this week, adding to the problem depth on the quick side of the line. Quarterback Mike Mosley, who bruised a knee against BYU, has been slowed in practice all week and is on a wait-and-see basis for the Baylor game. With David Bellard expected back for two more weeks, back up duties fall on freshman George Kubiak.

No matter who's under center for the Aggies Saturday, when they come to the line they'll look right in the eye of Baylor middle linebacker Mike Singletary. Singletary had seven more in last week's victory over Lamar. Singletary was named the SWC's Defensive Player of the Week.

"He's just something else out there," Wilson said of Singletary. "He's just one of the good ones."

So is Baylor tailback Walter Abercrombie, as the Aggie defense realized last season. As a freshman playing his first game against the Aggies, Abercrombie rushed for 19 yards on 19 carries. Last week he gained his starting position and picked up 83 yards on 20 carries.

"He's just a good, tough back," Wilson said about Abercrombie. "He's their workhorse on offense."

"With him in the backfield, there's no doubt that they'll come out running the ball. We just have to be aggressive on defense to stop them."

Mickey Elam earned the Bear starting quarterback honors this week and will be leading the offense Saturday. Against Lamar, Elam played just over half the game and threw for 102 yards and a touchdown.

"Mickey has leadership qualities and he can motivate the team. His strength is his quickness and running ability. He's not a great passer but an adequate passer."

"(Backup quarterback) Mike Brannon is the opposite. He's a better passer and an adequate runner. We have to be ready for anything against them."

The game is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Baylor Stadium. The stadium is located on Valley Drive, off Interstate Highway 37, the west side of Waco.

Reds confident of championship

United Press International
CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds, after sweeping a key two-game series from the Houston Astros, departed Thursday for Los Angeles and a 10-game road trip.

The trip concludes Sept. 21-23 with what figures to be a critical three-game series against the Astros.

The two victories over Houston this week lifted Cincinnati from a half-game deficit to a game-and-a-half lead over Houston in the tight National League West title chase.

And, the victories also seemed to fire up the Reds.

"The series with the Astros showed how much the guys are really up," said Ray Knight, who collected three hits in Wednesday night's 7-4 win. "When this has incentive, there isn't a better one in baseball."

"The Astros have a lot of baseball players," said Dave Concepcion. "I think we're going to win the division title."

"We've got a lot of players with experience on this club. And they who don't have it know their capabilities. They're not going to choke."

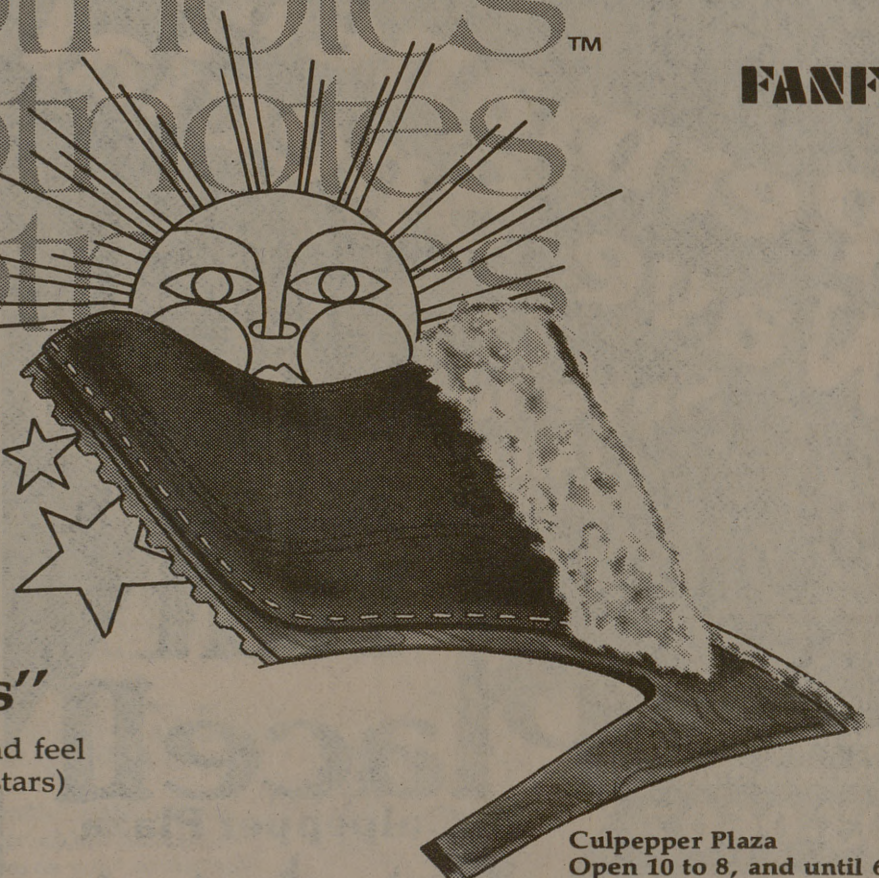

However, Johnny Bench said there is no way Houston can be counted out.

"Not the way they battle," said Bench.

And, figured Houston manager Bill Virdon. "I think we'll get heads above water again. I think it will still be interesting down the road."
