Giant posters try to stop English killer

LEEDS, England — Police have distributed giant posters with samples of the Yorkshire Ripper's handwriting in an unprecedented ad campaign aimed at catching the elusive murderer who has killed 12 women to death in the tradition of the 19th-century London killer Jack the Ripper.

"Ignore the Ripper and he'll kill again," warned one of the 500 20-by-50 foot posters distributed in Leeds by police Monday.

"The Ripper would like you to ignore this," said another of the posters that will be plastered on billboards all over Britain.

The posters also contained an appeal for anyone recognizing the handwriting to call the police, who have put up to 500 people on the case.

The posters were only the beginning of a mass advertising campaign to catch the killer.

Tapes of the Ripper's voice will go to all radio and television stations for broadcast in an attempt to find someone who recognizes the killer's voice, police said.

The tape is a copy of the taunting three-minute tape the Ripper sent the leader of the police hunt last summer.

In a harsh, flat voice, the Ripper bragged about his grisly record and promised to strike in September.

Soviets stop culture tour in same week

MOSCOW — For the second time in a week, Soviet authorities have canceled a cultural tour abroad, but they denied it was because of a rapid-fire series of embarrassing defections in September.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry Tuesday announced the cancellation of the 70-member remennik theater group which was to live up to their side of the agreement. They did not elaborate.

The first hint of the cancellation came when the group failed to appear in Sweden on the regular flight from Moscow as planned.

"When they didn't turn up, we thought at first something had gone wrong with the flight so we waited for the next one," said Gullberg, press officer for the Dramatic Theater in Stockholm which arranged the tour.

"When the next flight came and they still had not arrived, we rang the Russian Embassy to find out what had gone wrong."

Several hours later, the embassy said the tour had been canceled with no explanation why, she said.

The first in a string of recent defections from Soviet touring companies occurred in New York on Sept. 22 when ballet star Aleksandra Godunova left the Bolshoi Theater for political asylum.

On Sept. 16, two more dancers, Leonid and Valentina Kozlov, defected from the Bolshoi company in Los Angeles.
