Big bucks for prisoner

United Press International
HUNTSVILLE, Texas — Convict Marshall Hawkins of Bryan, Texas, earned $375 for a minute's work Sunday in removing a tobacco sack from the horns of a wild bull in the hard-money event at the 48th annual Texas Prison Rodeo.

A record crowd of 22,710 watched as Hawkins — who is serving a five-year sentence — won the event over 39 other contestants for the second week in a row, upping his winnings to $575. Although the usual cash prize for the hard-money event is $100 but donations have upped the booty each week.

Top winners in other events Sunday included Virgil McCullar, serving 20 years from Simms, mad scramble; Ronald Campbell, serving three years from Lubbock, bareback bronc riding; Rusty Huff, serving 30 years from Pampa, saddle bronc riding; and Willie Ballage, serving 25 years from Houston, bull riding.

This year's final rodeo is scheduled Oct. 28 with Tom T. Hall as the featured country and western artist.

AN INVITATION TO ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTALISTS

The B-CS Chamber Orchestra cordially invites amateur instrumentalists to join with them and the Community Singers in the annual preparation and performance of Handel's "Messiah" on December 9, 1979. The orchestra is an amateur, non-profit community service group open to all interested players.

An organizational meeting and mixer for new members will be held at the regular Monday evening, October 29, meeting of the Classical Piano Club (Room 231, MSC at 7:30 p.m.).

Although the mixer will not be a formal rehearsal, nor do we have rigorous auditions for the orchestra, please feel free to bring your instrument as the Classical Piano Club encourages music-making at its meetings.

Interested persons who are unable to attend the mixer can obtain further information by telephone: 822-0441, 846-9567, or 693-2303.

Pam Hill, the No. 1 seed for the Texas A&M women's tennis team, returns serve in practice. The Aggies' women's team placed second behind North Texas State University in Texas A&M Invitational played Friday-Saturday. Battalion photo by Lee Roy Lester.

Ag women place second

The North Texas State "Mean Green" Eagles won the most matches and the women's Texas A&M Invitational tennis tournament Saturday by defeating Texas A&M, Rice and Lamar.

The two-day tournament was set up in a round-robin format with each team playing nine matches — six singles and three doubles — against the other three teams.

North Texas State won by defeating all three teams. A&M was second with a 2-1 record, Lamar was 1-2 and Rice went 0-3.

NTSU won five out of the nine matches against A&M with NTSU winning four of the six singles matches and the Aggies winning two out of the three doubles matches.

Service breaks broke different ways for A&M's No. 1 seed, Pam Hill. In one singles match of her first set against NTSU's Athena Blair, Hill won 6-2 without losing her serve.

But in the second set, Blair and Hill broke each other's serve eight times. Hill, who played the tournament with sore feet — won that set 7-6 (5-1 in the nine-point tie-breaker) to win the match.

Though A&M lost to NTSU, Lilia Fernandez who won other singles match 6-1, 6-3 against Lamar Saturday in Fayetteville, 1976, 1977, and played very solidly against Hopkins.

Junior Terri Neutze, the SWC champion in Little Rock, Arkansas, transferred from Lamar Saturday to Rice College, defeated Monica (one of Lamar's three players) 6-1, 6-3.

Things just never went the Rice team when it found player was ineligible because had an incomplete transcript. Another was too injured to play matches. Rice had to forfeit matches, and only won the tournament.

When Rice played A&M Saturday afternoon, Tracy Blumenthal, top and nationally-acclaimed, won her singles and doubles. But A&M won all the rest.

The A&M men's and women's teams will play Nov. 2 at Conroe at the Walden Classic.
