Mrs. Bush says poll show a GOP leaders like her man

By RICHARD OLIVER

Barbara Bush, wife of presidential candidate George Bush, rolled into town Thursday night, but only 50 eople took notice. Bush spoke at the Ramada Inn for nearly an hour about her husband's candidacy, then fielded questions on his campaign.

Bush started an extensive tour of the state on Monday, and has been going non-stop ever since. Her five-day tour will include nine stops in Congressional districts, and 21 eparate honorary events. Prior to her talk, Bush said she didn't mind the hectic schedule too much, and wants to do all she can to help her husband win the presi-

"It's a pretty heavy schedule," she said. "But if you want to do a good job, that's what it takes." During her speech, Bush said she loved being a Congressman's wife, and was confident of her husband's ability to run a government.

"I realize the name George Bush s not a household word," she said. I believe George can take over an institution and leave it looking better when he leaves than it was when he started.

He can build into a better one by hiring 17 men . . . or firing them, and not doing it with a big news release. He simply sets about to build good institution or agency

Bush cited several polls which revealed her husband's rising popularity in the race. She said a recent poll conducted by the Christian Science Monitor indicated Bush was favored for the more than 66 percent of the Republican leaders in the nation. She also pointed out the witches that the National Witches Halloween Convention held annually on
