

Aggiephilia: learn to whoop in one quick, easy lesson

Aggie football. Those two words seem hardly adequate for the mass insanity that grips Texas A&M and College Station during that most sacred of fall events — a home football game. The world turns maroon and white, traffic runneth over and “Gig ‘em!” is the law of the land. And so it was for the Aggies 47-14 lambasting of Southern Methodist University’s Mustangs Saturday.

Cadets “wildcat” after the Aggies’ final touchdown of the afternoon.

Aggie defensive ends Keith Baldwin, 80, and...

Freshmen cadets eagerly eye the A&M yell leader they’ll soon dunk in the “Fish Pond” to celebrate the Aggie victory.

Television coverage claimed, like those of this gentleman the campus.

Photos by Lee