

High school playoff scene

United Press International
Although many district high school championships, and thus post-season playoff berths, remain up for grabs this week in the final games of the regular season, several zone playoffs in Classes AAA and B are also on tap as the month-long run to determine Texas state champions begin.

Three zone battles in Class AAA find Beaumont Hebert playing Crosby in Crosby Friday at 7:30 p.m. for the District 9-AAA title, Brownwood and Waco Connally meet in Stephenville at 8 p.m. Friday for the District 11-AAA crown, and Kerville plays San Antonio Madison Friday at 8 p.m. at South San Antonio Stadium.

But the zone playoffs are just a part of the overall post-season berth decision to be decided this week. Eight of the remaining districts are still undecided going into the final week of play.

Lubbock Estacado and Canyon play for District 1-AAA, Odessa Ector and Monahans meet for 2-AAA, Fort Worth Northside and Azell are still fighting for the 5-AAA crown, Paris and Mount Pleasant meet for the 7-AAA championship, Jacksonville plays Carthage for the 8-AAA berth, Huntsville must defeat Navasota for the 10-AAA title, Wharton and Bay City vie for 14-AAA honors and Gregory-Portland must defeat Corpus Christi West Oso for 15-AAA honors.

That leaves only five districts in Class AAA already decided — San Angelo Lakeview in 3, Burkburnet in 4, McKinney in 6, Austin Westlake in 12 and Falfurrias in 16.

Also moving into zone playoffs will be at least six Class B zones. Valley meets Lazbuddie Thursday in Plainview for 2-B; Sterling City plays Klondike Saturday in Colorado City for 3-B; Del City faces Grandfalls Friday in Wink for 4-B; Robert Lee meets Groman Friday in Abilene for 6-B; defending state champion Union Hill plays Carlisle Friday for 10-B; and Salado meets Axtell Saturday in McGregor for 13-B. Several of the remaining 10 districts are also undecided.

The other classifications also have many encounters this week to decide both championships and playoff berths.

In Class AAAA, Amarillo meets Pampa for the title in 3; Lubbock Monterey must win to wrap up 4; Arlington Heights and Fort Worth Eastern Hills meet for 7; Irving and Euless Trinity are in the running in 9; Dallas Roosevelt, Dallas Carter and Dallas Madison are tied atop 12; Plano must win Friday to capture 13; Lufkin faces a must win in 14; Temple and Bryan square off in 15; it's a must win game for Houston Klein in 16.

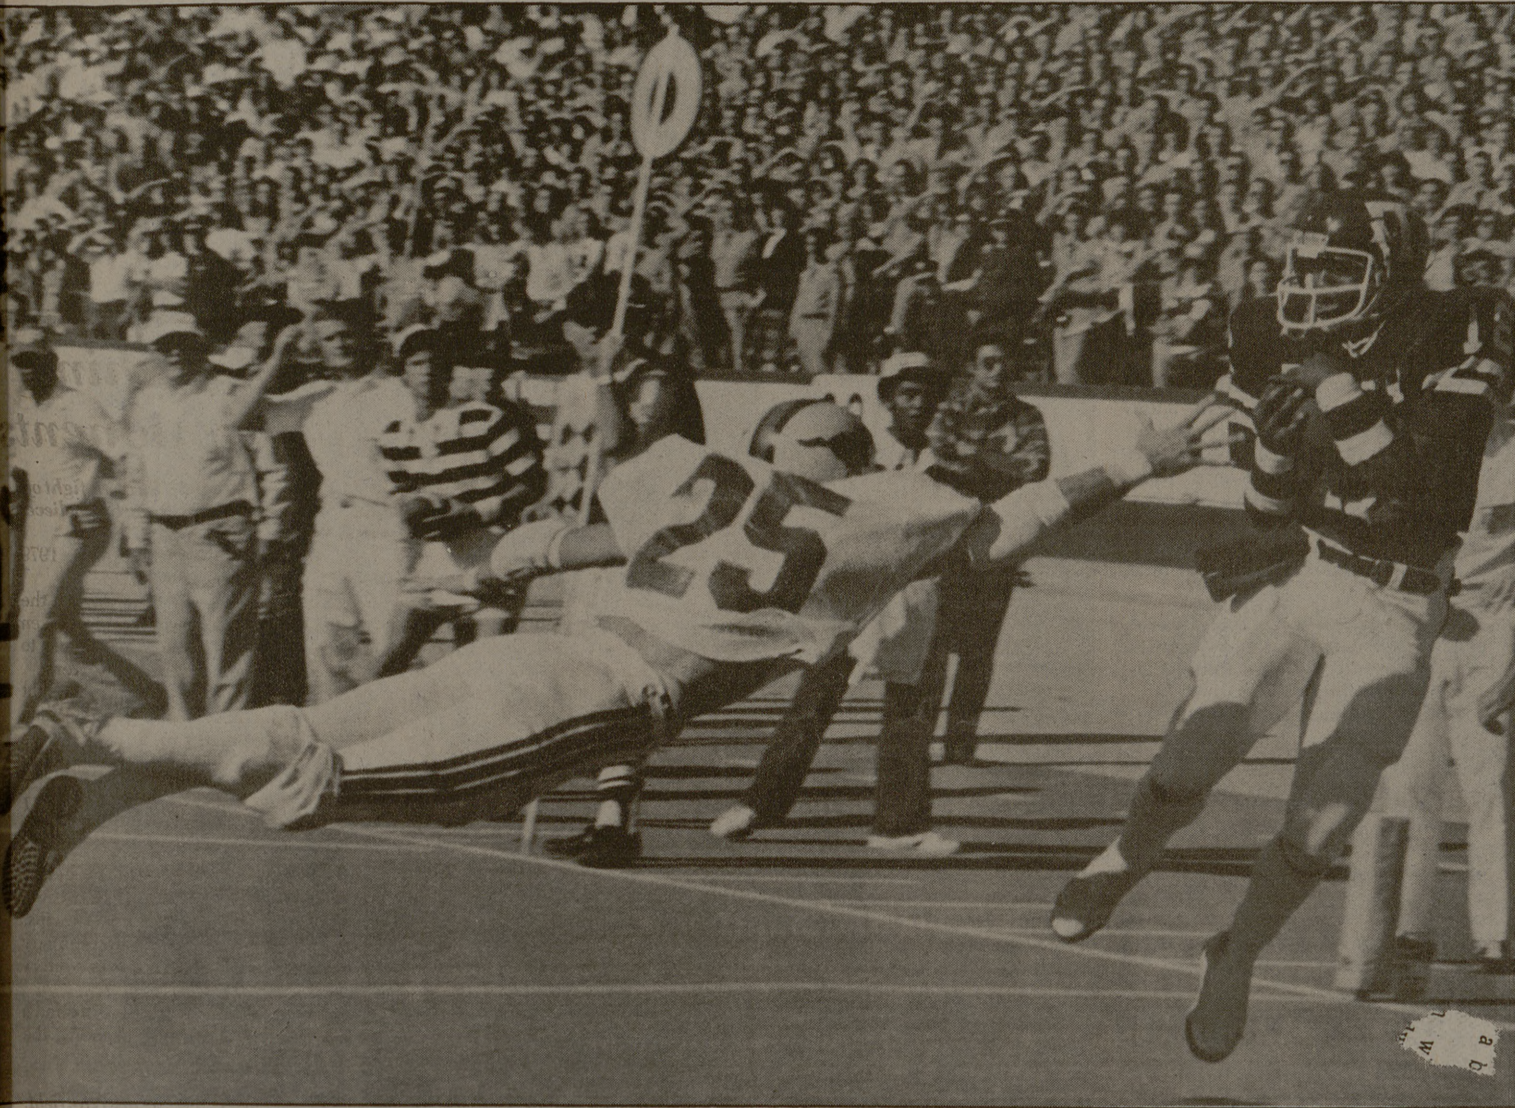

In the other half of Class AAAA, Houston Memorial advances only if it wins in 17; Houston Kashmere meets Houston Washington in the Astrodome for 19; Port Neches-Groves and West Orange-Starke play for 22; Texas City must win for 24; Lamar Consolidated and Brazoswood play for 25; San Antonio Converse Judson and San Antonio East Central meet for 29; San Antonio Jay and San Antonio Holmes play for 30; San Antonio Wheatley and San Antonio Eldison vie for 31; and San Antonio Churchill must defeat San Antonio Lee to avoid a three-way tie in 32.

Almost as many showdowns remain in Classes AA and A, as officials admit the 1979 season has been one of the most balanced in recent years for all classes of Texas high school football.

Three defending state champions are still in the picture heading into the finals week — two of them in zone playoffs. Brownwood downed Gainesville, 21-12, for the Class AAA title and Union Hill beat Wheeler, 14-7, in Class B. China Spring, a 42-3 winner over Lexington for the Class A crown last year, is in the playoffs again as the District 11 champion.

Defending champions in Class AAAA — Houston Stratford — and Class AA — Sealy — have already been eliminated this year. But, the runners-up who lost out in those championship games, Collin County powers Plano in AAAA and Wylie in AA, can return to the playoffs with victories this week.

Great Scott!

Texas A&M's David Scott catches the ball for a touchdown, just out of the reach of SMU's Dick Blaylock. Scott teams with Gerald Carter and Doug Teague to make up the Aggie receiving corps which has been used extensively since Tom Wilson installed the I-formation at A&M.

Women's soccer team heads for tournament

Top-seeded Texas A&M University women's soccer team retained the Austin Women's Soccer League tournament title last weekend, winning with a series of close 1-0 victories.

Eighteen top collegiate and city-league teams throughout Texas participated in the invitational tournament.

After receiving a bye in the first round, the Aggies faced Majik, a city league team from San Antonio. Moving the ball through Majik's defense, Ricky Carpenter provided the Aggies with the goal to give them a 1-0 victory.

The Aggies played Requiem Condatated from Austin in the semi-finals. With her first goal of the season, Terry Gerber gave the Aggies the win, another 1-0 victory, to move them into the finals.

The Aggies played the Dallas Cyclones in the championship game. Aggressive defensive play from Mele Fairman, Ceil Cottingham, Gerber and Goalie Lani Jacobs held the Cyclones scoreless at the half. In second half action, Carpenter scored a pass from Lucy Bourne, which proved to be the necessary goal to win the title match, 1-0.

Captain Ceil Cottingham was named to the tournament player for outstanding performances throughout the weekend.

Coach Alan Heath now prepares the Aggies for the Dallas State Tournament. Universities across the state will be represented for the first annual tournament this weekend.

Heath is concerned with the injuries received last weekend, but feels his starting lineup will be ready.

Captain Jamie Fougerson, Carol Sullivan and Donnal Ellerbe will be starting at midfield this weekend.

There's a lot of talent at our half-back (Fougerson, Sullivan, Ellerbe) and Jernigan.

and fullback line (Cottingham, Fairman, Gerber, Jacobs), that's why it's difficult for any team to score against us," Heath said. This is evident by the fact the Aggies have scored 37 goals to the opponents 15 in 13 games. Contributing to the Aggies offensive punch is Mezaine Felger, Janet Horton, Carpenter and Stephanie Barrett.
