OPEC urged to end confusion

United Press International
CARACAS, Venezuela — Venezuelan President Luis Herrera Monday called on the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to end the current confusion over oil prices and forge a strong united front in dealings with the industrialized world.

"Confusion and lack of discipline in the market does not favor the long-range objectives of our organization," Herrera said in a speech opening the 55th semi-annual conference of the oil producing countries.

"It tends only to separate and weaken us while the multinational oil intermediaries reap the benefits without regard to any serious study of the origin and use of hydrocarbons."

The conference will try to set a unified oil pricing policy, although Iran, Libya and Indonesia have already announced their own substantial increases.

Herrera said the spot market of high-priced oil sales outside the control of long-term contracts is adding to the confusion and threatening to become a permanent fixture of oil dealings at speculative prices.

He called for unified measures by the producers to protect the value of their resources through market stability and price adjustments to compensate for world inflation and the falling value of the dollar.

Herrera accused consuming nations of wasteful policies of oil usage and said leaders of the industrialized nations were trying to blame OPEC for inflation caused by their own lack of foresight.

He said OPEC is seeking to set its own international new pricing "to avoid the distortion, disincentive, confusion and mistaken evaluations which are a consequence of the current and subjective reporting on petroleum developments."

Dickens' life
United Press International
ROCHESTER, England — A Charles Dickens center has opened in the town where Dickens lived the last 15 years of his life and where he featured in many of his novels.

Eastgate House, in the city center, after, covers most aspects of the author's life with photographs, drawings, recorded excerpts and displays of famous scenes from his novels.

In the garden is the chalet where Dickens wrote his last words in 1870. It has been moved from his home near Rochester.
