A spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Health strongly urges county officials to support and enforce the new Texas Rabies Con-

'Rabies and animal control are major problems in many communities, and you are in a position to decide how these problems will be handled," said Dr. Foy V. McCasland Wednesday.

McCasland spoke at the 22nd Annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference being held through today at the College Station Ramada Inn.

The Texas Rabies Control Act, known as House Bill 1323, became effective Jan. 1, forming a legal base for the implementation of county and city programs to curb the growing numbers of rabies cases and uncontrolled animals each year.

McCasland said that until the bill was passed, Texas was one of the few states which did not have a rabies control law. He said Texas rabies cases had steadily increased cases each year since 1973, and noted a marked rise in 1979.

"Texas had over 1, 100 cases of confirmed rabies in 1979," he said. The 1976-77 outbreak of rabies in

Laredo is an example of what could happen if the problem is ignored much longer, he said "That outbreak cost the city over $2.5 dollars." McCasland said the bill provides legal support for programs designed to immunize all pets against rabies, to require all animal bites be requarantining of biting animals. bill also puts controls on the imp tion of dogs and other animals the state.
