Ags thrash Bears; up record to 9-2

By RICK STOLLE Sports Reporter

Despite losing both the number one singles and doubles matches to Baylor, the Texas A&M men's tennis team beat the Bears 7-2 Monday.

Baylor's Paul Montoya beat Reid Freeman in the number one singles match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. Later, he teamed with Carl Good in doubles to beat Freeman and Alberto Jimenez 7-6, 2-6, 6-3.

The Aggies swept the remaining matches to win the contest.

"Trey Schutz and Max King played well in the wind," said David Kent, Texas A&M tennis coach.

"They are a good team in doubles and are deadly individually, in singles."

"Many times," he said, "we were fighting the wind more than our opponents."

Freshman Brian Joelson's singles victory raised his season record to 9-1, the best individual performance on the team. Joelson, the team's number five player, has great talent, Kent said, and could go a long way.

Results:

Singles: Montoya, Baylor, beat Freeman; Schultz beat Carl Good 6-4, 6-4; Jimenez defeated David Cheek, 6-1, 6-1; Max King beat Serzio Malo, 6-1, 6-1; Brian Joelson defeated David Peterson, 7-5, 6-3 and Tom Judson beat Billy Ashburn, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles: Montoya-Good, Baylor, defeated Freeman-Jimenez; Schutz-King beat Malo-Forrest, 6-1, 6-1 and Joelson-Jim Grubert beat Cheek-Peterson, 7-5, 6-3.

Good games from Woods key to tourney-Metcalf

United Press International

Texas A&M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf said Tuesday he believes 6-11 sophomore center Rudy Woods may be the key to success for the Aggies in the NCAA playoffs.

"We can't run with Bradley," Metcalf said of the team's opponent Friday night in the Midwest Regionals in Denton.

"We'll have to play our own game and the points on the board will be important. A good game out of Rudy would help. If Rudy has a good game, they shouldn't be able to cover him."

Metcalf said Bradley's tallest starters are 6-8 center Ronald Reese and 6-7 forward Mitchell Anderson, who is averaging 20.7 points a game. Three other Bradley starters are 6-6, 6-4 and 6-3 but Metcalf said his team will have a slight height advantage with Woods, 6-8 Vernon Smith, 6-6 Rynn Wright and 6-9 reserve Claude Riley.

Metcalf, however, acknowledged he does not know too much about his opponent.

"We're working up a scouting report but won't get to see any film since both the Southwest Conference and the Missouri Valley have a gentlemen's agreement not to send out film."

But Metcalf said he does not expect any surprises for his 24-7 team in the meeting with 23-9 Bradley.

"We've seen all types of offenses and defenses," Metcalf told reporters. "Now it's a matter of mental preparedness rather than physical."

"We'll work on the fundamentals and stay in tune. We won't have any excuses. We'll be mentally ready," he promised. "If we get beat, it will be because Bradley played better."

When asked about North Carolina, the team that will meet the winner of Friday's contest, Metcalf said: "We're not giving North Carolina any thoughts."

"There's no North Carolina if we don't beat Bradley."

NIT action begins tonight at Illinois, Illinois State

United Press International

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — Illinois and Illinois State host first-round action in the 32-team, far-flung National Invitation Tournament Wednesday night.

The Fighting Illini, playing in their first post-season tournament since 1963, entertain Loyola of Chicago and the Redbirds host West Texas State of the Missouri Valley Conference. Tipoff at Assembly Hall in Champaign is 7:05 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at Horton Field House in Normal.

For Illinois State, it will be the third appearance in the NIT since the Redbirds joined Division I of the NCAA in the 1971-72 season.

Both Illinois Coach Lou Henson and Illinois State Coach Bob Donewald are thrilled about the bids.

"I'm really excited about being in the tournament and extremely pleased to have the opportunity to host the game," Donewald said.

"This is quite a boon to our program," Henson said. "It has to help in every respect including recruiting, the visibility of our program, our image and a number of other ways. It's a giant step for Illinois basketball."

Loyola Coach Jerry Lyne, expecting a bid from the NCAA, expressed disappointment. However, he said his team will be ready for the Illini.

"We're disappointed we're not going to the NCAA but the players are ready for the NIT and are going to make the best of it. Playing at Illinois is no easy task," Lyne said.

The Ramblers have played in the NIT three times and the NCAA tournament four times including 1963 when they eliminated Illinois in a second round game.

Both Loyola (19-9) and Illinois (18-12) relatively high-scoring teams.

Rader takes football post

University News Service

Dick Rader, who coached with Tom Wilson three years at Texas Tech, has joined Wilson's coaching staff at Texas A&M, it was announced Monday by Texas A&M Athletic Director Marvin Tate.

Rader, who was offensive coordinator and offensive backfield coach at West Virginia University the past two seasons, comes to Texas A&M after spending the last five weeks on the coaching staff of Rice University.

Rader reportedly will accept a Texas A&M position with duties similar to those he held at Rice.

"I'm very happy to have Dick Rader on our staff," Wilson said. "He is an outstanding person, football coach and recruiter."

Rader said, "I felt the opportunity to join Texas A&M was best for me and my family. I regret leaving Rice after such a short stay but the football coaching job at A&M was one I just couldn't turn down."

Prior to going to West Virginia, his alma mater, Rader served on Jim Carlen's staff as offensive backfield coach three years at Texas Tech and three seasons at South Carolina.

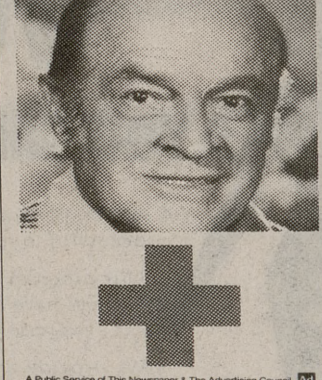

Texas A&M's Paul Register, defensive tackle coach, gave Rader his first coaching job as top assistant at Spring Branch High School in Houston. Rader then spent one more year with Register at Hurst Bell and then became head coach for one year at Breckenridge High School before going to Texas Tech.

It was at Tech, from 1972 to 1974, that Rader coached with Wilson and two other current Aggie coaches, Jess Stiles and Ted Unbehagen.
