Mary Elizabeth Herring, a Texas M University student, filed Tuesto run for a place on the College tion City Council.

Herring, a junior agriculture ecomics major, is challenging incument Pat Boughton for place four. le election date is April 5.
Herring has served as the Texas

M student senate liaison with the uncil since October, and will conue in that position until April 1 "I'm running for the council," terring said, "because I got insted in their issues, especially zoning. But as the liaison I felt limited to student affairs, and it would be nice to have a voice and be able to

"I'm interested in College Station because it's where I live. It's a nice city that's growing fast and I want to see it maintain its beauty and atmos-

Herring is the only student running for a council position in this election. There are four places open and all but one of the incumbents are running again.

City Council Coordinator Mandy Milberger said students have run in the past, but none have served on the council before.

Herring said she has a hard month of campaigning ahead of her that is going to involve a great deal of time. If she is elected to the two-year term, Herring said she will take fewer hours and not be involved with student senate in order to compensate for the time and responsibility with City Council. Council members meet twice a month and are not paid for the time they spend on ciy business.

Simon's 'Chapter Two' playing tonight –tickets left

"Chapter Two," a humorous autobiographical play by Neil Simon, appears tonight at 8:15 in Texas A&M University's Rudder

The play stars Dawn Wells and David Faulkner. Wells, known for her portrayal of Mary Ann in the television series "Gilligan's Island," has also starred in the touring version of "The Owl and The Pussycat.

Faulkner has starred in numerous plays, and has appeared on several television shows, including "Kojak," "Ryan's Hope" and "The Guiding Light."

'Chapter Two" is the true story of Simon's turn from grief to joy following the death of his first wife. The story centers around Simon meeting his present wife, Marsha Mason, and the heartbreak and happiness involved in their romance and courtship.

Michelle Scudder, MSC Town Hall chairman, said 1,000 tickets are left for the performance, with student prices ranging from $3 to
