

Aggies hit road to play Hogs

By MIKE BURRICHTER
Sports Editor

In what coach Tom Chandler calls his team's biggest test in the young baseball season, the Texas A&M University baseball team will travel to Arkansas this weekend for a three-game series against the Razorbacks in Fayetteville.

The upstart Aggies, considered by Chandler to be in a rebuilding season, will enter the series with a 22-4 overall record, which includes a 9-3 mark in Southwest Conference play. This puts them a game and a half behind the 9-0 University of Texas Longhorns. The Aggies made their first conference sweep of the season last weekend against the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Chandler said he thinks Arkansas, which was on a 12-game winning streak until defeated by the University of Houston Saturday, is one of the teams to beat in the SWC.

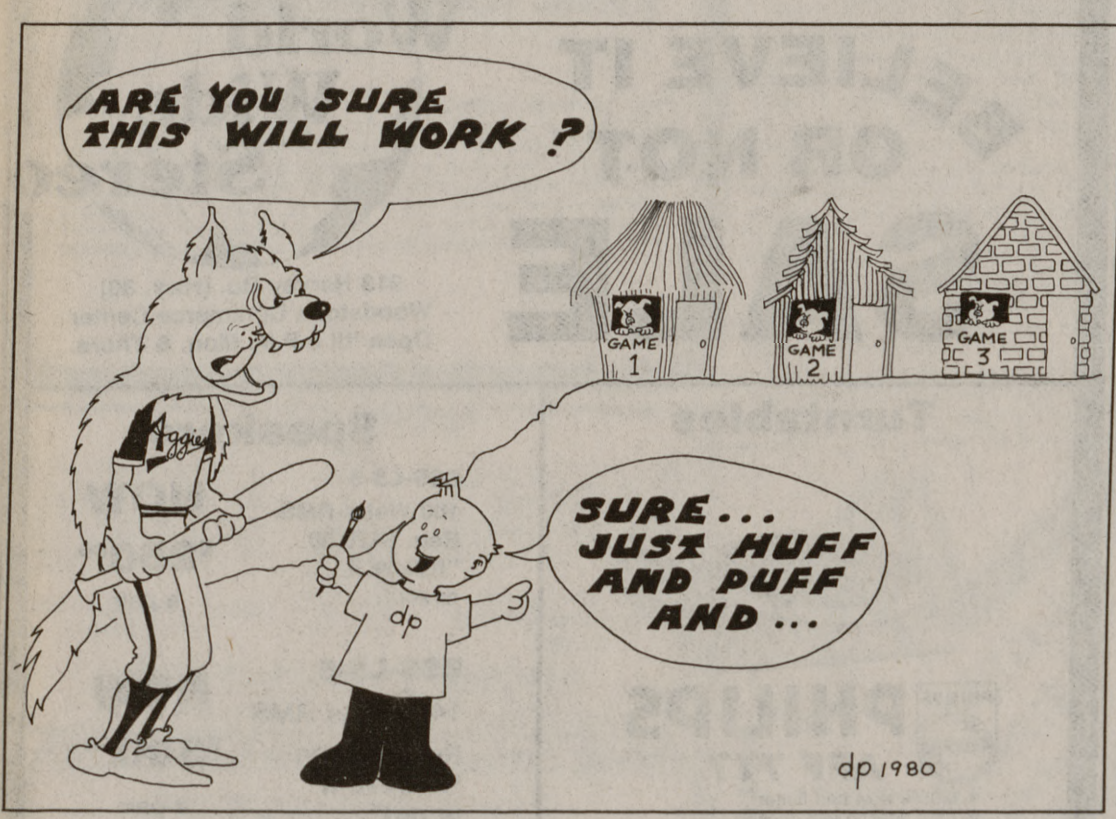

He said he plans to start three freshmen pitchers this weekend, with either David Flores or Jack Miska in the opener, followed by Robert Slavens and Rick Luecken. Both Slavens and Luecken have been nothing less than sensational so far, each sporting 6-0 season records.

Sooners beat Wesleyan

United Press International
NORMAN, Okla. — Junior right-hander David Brooks threw a two-hitter for his second shutout of the year in Oklahoma's 3-0 win against Texas Wesleyan in the first half of a scheduled double-header Thursday.

The win was the 599th career victory for coach Enos Semore, who was denied a chance to gain No. 600 the same day because rain forced cancellation of the second game.

Sooner batting ace Frank Merez hit his sixth home run of the season to lead off the fifth inning and open the Sooner scoring. Merez doubled in the sixth and scored on a single by Bryan Stafford.

Women's track team competing in Denton

The Texas A&M University women's track team travels to Denton to participate in the Texas Woman's University Invitational track meet today and Saturday.

The meet, one of the strongest of the young outdoor season, will feature the University of Texas-El Paso, the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, the University of Texas and TWU, both ranked in the top 10, will also be there.

Head coach Bill Nix's Aggie Ladies will also take a shot at the team title. The Aggies are particularly strong in the field events and long distances. Shot putter Iris Tipton and high jumper Jan Chesbro were both first place winners at last week's Texas Southern University Relays, and they will anchor the field events.

The Aggies are likely to score points in the long distances, especially in the 1,500-, 3,000- and 5,000-meters. Sandra Brown set a new school record in the 3,000-meter race with a time of 9:58.3 even though it was the first time she had ever run that distance in competition. Lorie Scott and Barbara Collinsworth are both entered in the 3,000 and 5,000 meters, and both should be high finishers.

Nix was pleased with last week's performances in the TSU Relays, but did say work was needed with the sprinters.

"With more work the times will start coming down," said Nix, "and we will be more competitive in that area." Ellen and Evelyn Smith, along with Paula Lake, are the Aggies' top sprinters.

The Aggies will take 20 women to Denton this weekend, but will be without the services of Early Douglas. Douglas, who throws the shot put and discus, injured her throwing arm three weeks ago. She will sit out this week in the hopes of being at full strength at next week's Texas Relays in Austin. Nix said that the loss of Douglas would probably cost the Aggies about five points in the race for the team championship.
