Democratic primary not binding in race

By LAURA CORTEZ
City Staff

There will be a major difference between the Republican and Democratic Party primaries this year — the Republican vote for president will directly affect the race, but the Democratic vote will not.

Neeley Lewis, Democratic Party chairman for Brazos County, said although the names Carter, Kennedy and Brown will appear on the ballot, in that order, the outcome of the vote will have nothing to do with the selection of delegates to the national convention.

He said the only purpose the Democratic presidential vote in Texas will serve is to give an indication of the popular sentiment.

The decision to hold the Texas Democratic primary this way was made by the state Democratic Executive Committee, Lewis said.

He said he is not sure why the committee decided to hold this type of primary, but said there are many political considerations involved.

The Democratic Party will select delegates at the county convention. These delegates will go to the state convention. There, delegates will be chosen for the national convention according to their presidential preference, Lewis said.

The delegates are not bound to

Zentgraf suit wording protested by petition

By SHERRY WOODARD
Campus Reporter

A Texas A&M University student is circulating petitions on campus to try to show that not all female students think sex discrimination exists here.

The petition was drawn up in response to a suit filed against the University by Melanie Zentgraf, a senior female cadet who is suing Texas A&M for sex discrimination within the Corps of Cadets.

The petition, written by Mollie White, a junior elementary education major, states the women of Texas A&M object to the use of the phrase, "as representing the women at Texas A&M University," being used when referring to Zentgraf's status as class representative in her law suit.

The petition then requests that in future the phrase not be used in "any briefings, newspaper articles or spoken language regarding or involving this specific case."

Zentgraf said she doesn't believe
