Poerner knocks foe

United Press International
AUSTIN — Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner criticized his Democratic primary opponent Wednesday for not knowing the federal government sets coal-hauling rates.

Poerner said Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, was incorrect in saying the Railroad Commission sets a 30 percent tax charged by Wyoming for coal shipped to Texas. The commission chairman, a former legislator, said the Interstate Commerce Commission does the rate setting.

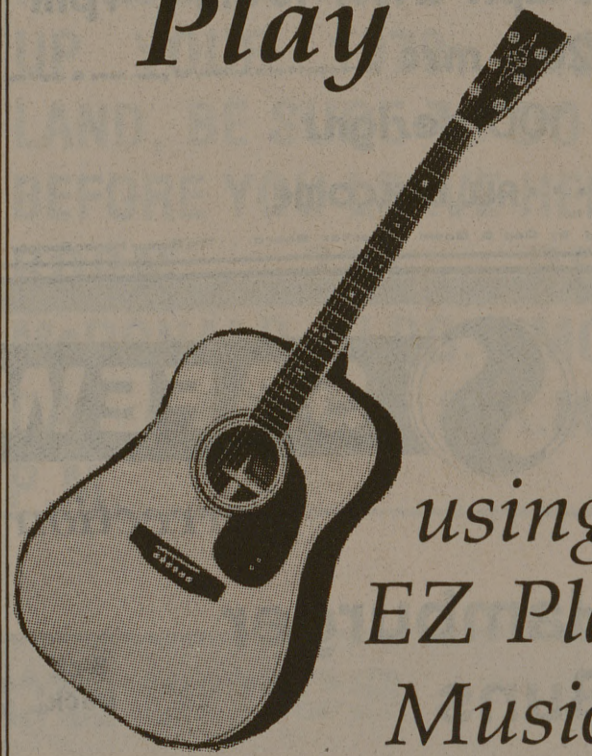

"When we both served in the Legislature, Buddy Temple was not known for being studious," Poerner said. "So, it's no surprise to me that he is ignorant of the statutes or that he doesn't know about federal ICC powers and regulations. The State of Texas has no legal authority to change ICC rulings."

Poerner's statement responded to Temple political advertisements implying the commission could change rail-hauling rates on products from other states.

Temple countered by saying Poerner was a "desperate bureaucrat" unable to justify inactivity on coal-hauling rates.

Temple said Poerner won't seek rate changes, but has lobbied for a "$20 billion Japanese 'bullet train' that is the biggest boondoggle of U.S. history."
