Show didn't go these 2 weekends

The MSC Town Hall Committee will not be presenting concerts for two consecutive football weekends due to booking cancellations, Chairman Michael Parkman says.

Donna Summer, booked last spring to appear in G. Rollie White Coliseum Wednesday night, canceled in July for personal reasons, Parkman said.

"We worked with several possibilities since then," Parkman said, "but nothing panned out."

Parkman said Christopher Cross was the most realistic possibility but that performer had not planned to tour this week.

Town Hall committee members tried until two weeks ago to book a show for this weekend. Parkman said they prefer a minimum of two weeks for ticket preparation and publicity.

Because Chicago canceled, Town Hall will not present a concert next weekend either. Parkman said the group canceled an entire tour with no explanation.

Parkman said Town Hall had an offer to get Linda Ronstadt as negotiations with Chicago were firming up. The committee said no to Ronstadt since Chicago was almost definite. But since the group had not actually signed a contract, it was still free to cancel.

"It's usually standard to lose one big show each year, usually during football season," Parkman said.

Other acts that have canceled Town Hall agreements in past years include Barry Manilow, Dolly Parton and Boston.

Town Hall has had three cancellations just this semester. Bruce Springsteen had been scheduled to appear in November.

Parkman said Springsteen decided not to play here because of the framework supporting the basketball goal above the coliseum stage.

"They require a 27-foot minimum distance between the stage and anything hanging above it," he said. Town Hall offered to tear down the framework that hangs 21 feet above the stage, but the earliest that could be done is Christmas.

"G. Rollie White is becoming a limiting factor in the kind of shows we can bring," Parkman said.

Town Hall has already presented three shows and has a total of eight budgeted for the year.

Coalition of libraries Offers $100 for logo

A group of research libraries in the Houston area is offering a $100 prize for a logo design to represent the organization.

Dr. Evelyn King, an assistant director of the Texas A&M University Libraries, said the contest seeks a simple but striking light and dark design or lettering and is open to students, faculty and staff.

The Houston Area Research Library Consortium (HARLiC) is composed of seven major research libraries. Through cooperative acquisitions, resource sharing and leadership, the consortium provides informational materials and services required to meet research needs of the institutions.

Entries should be prepared on heavy illustration board using India ink, black acrylic paint or similar contrasting media. Multiple entries are acceptable. All entries, bearing the contestant's name, telephone number and university or library affiliation, should be submitted to King in Room 200 of the Sterling C. Evans Library by Nov. 1.

The MSC Arts Committee cordially invites you to attend A Demonstration of Chinese Art by Liang Dan-Fong from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Tuesday, October 21 in the MSC Main Lounge. There will be a reception in the MSC Gallery immediately following.
