Texas A&M quarterback Gary Kubiak readies to unload a pass against the Baylor Bears Saturday at Kyle Field. Kubiak will start against Rice this weekend at Kyle Field. That game begins Saturday at 2 p.m. at Kyle Field. Regular quarterback Mike Mosley has been moved once again to free safety.

Kubiak is No. 1 now vs. Owls

X-rays taken Monday of Texas A&M quarterback David Beal's injured right wrist, indicated a slight fracture which doctors feel should heal quickly, coach Tom Wilson said early this week.

Beal should be ready to play for the last three Aggie games against Arkansas, TCU and Texas, said Wilson.

In the meantime, sophomore Gary Kubiak was listed as the No. 1 quarterback ahead of veteran Mike Mosley, who had been moved to defense before Beal's injury.

Wilson also said offensive guards John Osborn and Kent Adams and linebacker Mike Little will be held out of work this week because of injuries and that if his guards cannot play, two freshmen will have to start at those positions.

The Aggies were clobbered by Baylor last Saturday, a one-sided loss that followed similar setbacks against Georgia and Penn State.

"We're not as good as Georgia, Penn State or Baylor," Wilson said, "but we could be 3-3 because we should have beaten Houston. I'm disappointed at the margin by which we lost to those three good teams."

Ag volleyball team in Beaumont

By MIKE BURRICHTER
Battalion Staff

The Texas A&M women's volleyball team travels to Beaumont today to take on the Lamar University Cardinals.

The Ags, who last weekend were granted a holiday from an otherwise rugged fall schedule, take an 11-14 record into the contest. The Cardinals have beaten the Aggies once this season, but after a couple of wins in Denton and a close loss to Texas last week, the revitalized Aggies expect their luck to change.

Two weeks ago, the Aggies suffered through their worst week of the season, going 1-4 in a tournament and a dual match. Since then, first year coach Terry Condon has made some changes in her lineup. One change that has brought smiles to her face has been the elevation of sophomore Elizabeth Echternach from reserve setter to starting outside hitter.

Echternach, who hails from Newport Beach, Ca., said she's really looking forward to playing Lamar again.

"I like playing Lamar," she said of the team that defeated the Ags in five tough games earlier this season. "We always have good matches against them."

Echternach said the team isn't looking past their match with the Cardinals or a tournament in Houston this weekend to their trip to California next Monday.

"I want to win a few games before we go to California," she said. "It would be great for our confidence to win a couple of games before we go over there."

After their match play with the Cardinals today, they travel to Houston Friday for a small tournament. On Monday, the Aggies take off to California, where they'll spend a week playing several dual matches and a tournament against some of the stiffest competition in the country.

Dallas coach believes Hill was interfered with on play

United Press International
DALLAS — Dallas coach Tom Landry said Tuesday there was no question in his mind that flanker Ray Hill was a victim of pass interference last Sunday on a critical play in the Cowboys-Philadelphia game.

Landry also said running back Tony Dorsett was spared by Philadelphia linebacker Bill Bergey during the game, although he said that was not the play in which Dorsett received bruised ribs.

Dorsett is questionable for next Sunday night's meeting with the San Diego Chargers.

Needing a touchdown to tie the game in the final seconds, Dallas faced fourth down and goal from the Eagles' 8-yard line. Quarterback Danny White lobbed a pass towards Hill in the corner of the end zone and replays showed — at least to Landry's satisfaction — that cornerback Ronnell Young grabbed Hill's left arm before the ball arrived.
