Schmidt says he's in 'coma'

United Press International PHILADELPHIA — Thinking about the previous 173 games of the regular season, championship playoffs and World Series made Mike Schmidt exhale loudly before the next sip of champagne.

"I just feel so good that we don't have a baseball game tomorrow," the Philadelphia Phillies third baseman said wearily.

Schmidt also felt good for plenty of other reasons in the wild celebration scene Tuesday night. His two-run single in the third inning provided the spark in the Phillies' 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals for their first-ever series championship. In addition, Schmidt was named Most Valuable Player of the annual fall classic.

While admitting the award and series title left him in a "coma," there was nothing comatose about Schmidt's performance. He batted .381 for the six games and led his team in RBIs (7), runs scored (6) and homers (2).

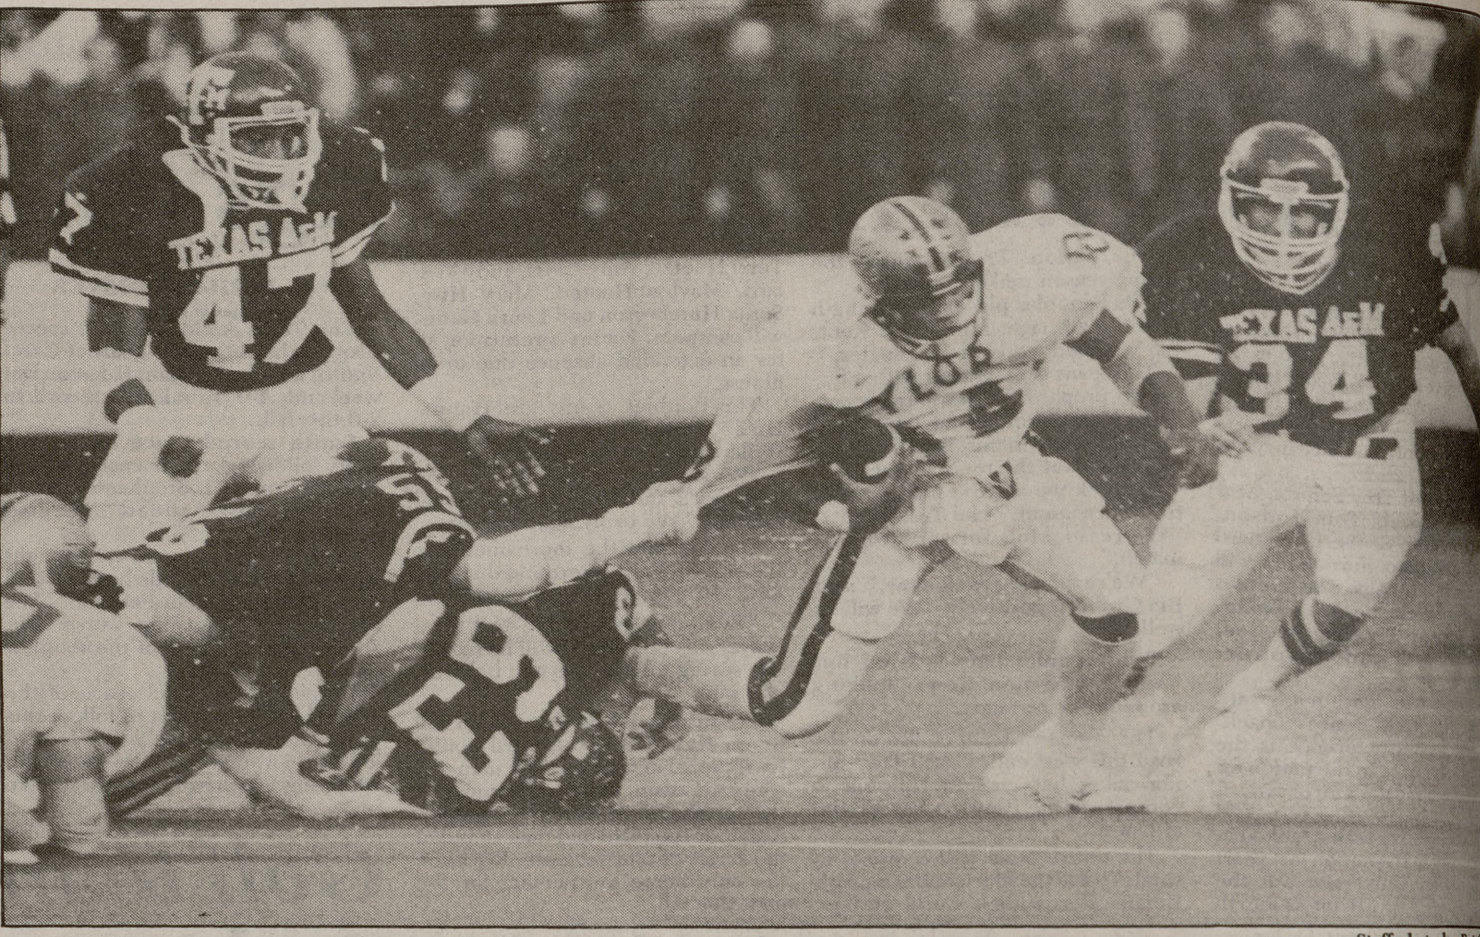

He was a big part of all the Series' wins for the Phillies. He scored two runs in Game 1, keyed a four-run eighth with an RBI double in Game 2 and hit a two-run homer and singled to set up the winning rally in Game 5. Schmidt, who led the majors with 48 home runs and drove in 121 runs, preferred to look at the World Series overall than comment specifically on his own showing.

"You can't see any better baseball than this," he said. "We were coming from behind in key situations. They (the Royals) had some great base running in Game 4. Everything you wanted to see in a World Series was in this one."

"You didn't see one team handle the other in four straight but you didn't see any sloppy baseball. Anybody who didn't like this World Series doesn't understand baseball."

As for his award, Schmidt conceded any member of the Phillies could have won it.

"It was a tough decision who to vote for. About six guys could have won it going into today's game. I squeaked through because I drove in the first two runs. That's why we're world champions — we don't depend on any one guy. It's a team thing."

Linebacker Mike Little holds on the jersey of Baylor's Walter Abercrombie during action in Saturday's rain-soaked game. Arm tackling and missed tackles have been a chronic problem with the Aggie defense this year. The Ags will probably be working on their tackling drills this week in preparation for the Rice Owls, who will invade Kyle Field Saturday afternoon.

Showdown in Odessa Friday

United Press International Traditionally it's a big Texas schoolboy football weekend whenever Odessa Permian and Abilene Cooper square off, and it's expected to be more of the same Friday night in Odessa.

Once again the winner is expected to take the District 5AAAAA crown and advance into post-season play. Permian, rated third in the Class 5A top 10, has a half-game edge going into the matchup after Cooper was tied, 21-21, last week.

"We look forward to the game, as we do each year," said Permian coach John Wilkins. "It's usually a big game for both of us, and it will be again this year. That's the way you want it to be — you both want to be in contention for the championship; you want it to mean something."

Wilkins said he was glad this year's game would be in Odessa, although he admitted the home-field advantage wasn't that big a factor in most high school games. He also said both teams would be looking toward what the outcome of this year's game would mean for the 1980 season, instead of looking back to last year when Cooper won and eventually represented the district in the playoffs.

"It's a different group of kids and it's another year," Wilkins said. "Sure, we all remember what the score was last year and who won — but we look to what a win this year can mean instead of trying to make up for what is now the past."

Wilkins said Cooper, with an outstanding quarterback, would present a challenge unlike any he has seen before.

"This kid has better games than most top quarterbacks," he said. "It gives Cooper an unusual offense in being able to run the pro dropback pass and mix in some regular high school running plays."

The key for us is how well we can contain their quarterback and his passing."

A key meeting of rated teams also comes in Class 1A, another West Texas meeting, with No. 4 Knox City at No. 5 Aspermont.

Class 5A top-ranked Temple is at Waco University and second-rated Port Arthur Jefferson is at Beaumont Forest Park. Fourth-ranked Dallas Highland Park hosts Mesquite, sixth-ranked Euleus Trinity is at Duncannonville, seventh-ranked San Antonio Holmes plays San Antonio Kennedy, eighth-ranked Bryan hosts Waco Richfield, ninth-ranked Lubbock Coronado plays Lubbock High and 10th-rated Plano hosts Richardson Pearce.

Gainesville, rated second in Class 4A, hosts Grapevine, third-ranked Beaumont Hebert hosts Silsbee, fourth-ranked Gregory-Portland is at Sinton and fifth-rated Andrews is at Fort Stockton. Top-ranked Bay City has an open date.

In Class 3A, Stamford defeated top rating against Abilene's second-rated Childress hosts third-ranked Pittsburg Cedar Hill and fifth-rated Cedar Hill Joshua. Fourth-rated Edna is Pilot Point, No. 1 in Class hosts Sanger, No. 2 Waskom and No. 3 Troup meets No. 4 Groveton faces Trinity. No. 5 Wheeler takes on Clarendon.

Other big games in Class 1B include top-ranked Falls City hosts Runge, second-rated Valley verton, third-rated Rankin and Sanderson and sixth-rated View at Collinsville.

Player eats earthworm

United Press International CHESTER, S.C. — Troy Roberts, who has become an authority on matter, says earthworms taste string dipped in sand.

So far this year, Roberts has summed 62 worms — one for point his high school football has outscored its opponents.

What started as a joke has become the team sport for Roberts and the Chester High School lones.

Roberts, an offensive tackle Tuesday he vowed last winter's worm for each point his team over its opponents. Roberts thinks he would be eating worms this year, because he won only two games during the season in the 4A conference.

But this year, the team has four of seven games. Roberts said he has not any ill effects from eating worms even though he felt a bit queasy after eating one. Roberts said Chester shut out Lewisville, 34-0.
