Vet students hold dog dip this Saturday

The Texas A&M University student chapter of the American Veterinary Medicine Association will hold a dog dip Saturday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. in the large parking lot behind the vet school on Highway 60 west of the main campus.

Cost is $3 per dog, and owners are asked to bring all dogs on a leash. Owners are also requested to bring a towel to dry their dog after the bath and dip.

Vet school students held three dog dips over the summer, a spokesman said, and this will probably be the last one of the season.

Ags trick-or-treat for kids

Today is National UNICEF day, providing students an opportunity to trick or treat for a worthy cause.

Contributions to the United Nations Children's Fund help support children in 110 developing nations by providing food, medicine and clean water.

Terri Miller, chairman of the UNICEF committee of the Student Y at Texas A&M University, said the organization has had a table for receiving donations in the Main Student Center all week.

Tonight the committee is sponsoring trick or treating for UNICEF in the dorms and the common areas on-campus activities are in conjunction with the Resident Hall Association, she said.

"This is the first year the UNICEF committee of the Student Y has taken off the ground," Miller said.

The committee's next funding project for UNICEF will be Christmas cards in November.
