Children comfort Little

United Press International
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Letters and cards from hundreds of well-wishers — especially children — have comforted former University of Arkansas and St. Cardinal kicker Steve Little, who was paralyzed from the waist down in an automobile accident.

His wife, Cindy, said Monday her husband had received "boxes and boxes" of letters since the accident left him paralyzed from the shoulders down. He was discharged from St. Louis Hospital to Little Rock, Ark., where he will undergo therapy.

Children recognize immediately what he has left, Mrs. Little. "One little boy wrote, 'You can think, can see, you can hear and you can kiss. You've got a big brain,'" she said.

A group of fourth graders wrote saying they believed in the love and concern these people pour out for him. "It's incredible," she said.

Little appeared happy, content and full of hope when getting her husband checked into the Arkansas Rehabilitation Institute, saying she was confident he would rehabilitate himself beyond what doctors believe possible.

Little, 24, was paralyzed when he lost control of his car on a rain-slicked St. Louis street and rolled into a road sign.

Mrs. Little said she understood his medical condition and doctors had predicted he would never walk again — but she had faith in a "very real, very healing God" and the support offered by both friends and strangers could provide the therapy he needs to recover.

A tape-recorded message from Little, who apparently was in high spirits, was played for reporters. It was very upbeat and cheerful and made it clear Little was happy to be back in Arkansas.

"Hello Arkansas sports fans, this is Steve Little lying in bed here from the hospital, wishing I could be out there with you today," he said on the tape. "I would just like to pass along a few words to you — that I couldn't wait to get back to the great state of Arkansas."

"Hopefully I'll be out of the hospital real soon and continue on to whatever I want to do. Hopefully, that will be football again, but until that time comes, I'm really not that much worried about it. I just wanted to tell you people that ya'll were great, that I love ya'll and I'm glad I'm back home."

Little underwent numerous tests and X-rays Monday. Dr. John Bowker, a University of Arkansas professor in orthopedics and medical director of the rehabilitation center, said the first major goal would be to mend the bones in his neck — preferably without surgery — but therapy would begin immediately to improve the abilities he retained.

Bowker could not set a time frame, but said Little would be released on an outpatient status as soon as he was able to travel back and forth from his suburban Little Rock home.

Landry: need momentum Rosen: 'will do what's best'

United Press International
DALLAS — The front office folk call the shots for the Dallas Cowboys as they prepare for the second Super Bowl title with a team that was almost totally rebuilt from the club that won the first one.

Landry said Dallas should happen to win the Super Bowl crown this year something against which the odds are fairly large — the Cowboys will be able to do it with yet another totally rebuilt club.

Because this particular unit is shy of experience when it comes to the pressures of the playoffs, coach Tom Landry feels the next few weeks are important to the development of the team.

"We are still proving ourselves every time we step on the field," Landry said Tuesday. "This team is not the same players what we had before. We don't go on to the next game with the same confidence. Each time you have to prove it again and prove that you can

Last winter McMullen overrode objections of since fired General Manager Tal Smith to sign free agent Ryan to a three-year, $1-million-a-year contract. Smith argued such a contract was not necessary and that it would throw his salary structure out of balance.

As of Friday afternoon, Rosen said he was close to setting up meetings with agents of pitcher Sutton, catcher Darrell Porter and defensive specialist Dave Roberts. He seemed concerned the draft's plum, slugger Winfield, might not hear his offer.

As if making an appeal, Rosen said, "It would be hard for me to believe Dave Winfield will not explore all the possibilities."

Before owner John McMullen bought the Astros in July, 1979, the team had one of the lowest salary which brings us to the fact that the team plays its last three games at Oakland, Los Angeles and Philadelphia — all legitimate contenders for the Super Bowl this year. You play top contenders in last games and beat two of them, you would be fortunate and you will be going into the playoffs on a high note," the coach said.

Landry reiterated that the rebuilding team has to get into the playoffs as important as the quality-play team can produce when it is there.

"How you play that's important," he said. "If you go into the playoffs with a positive note you have the best chance. But if you're stumbling around, not playing well, you probably aren't going to go far in the playoffs anyway."

Considering all of that, Landry said his team's comeback performance against St. Louis Sunday was the thing to start the Cowboys on the much needed road to momentum.

"You want to gain momentum, you've got to gain it pretty quick," Landry said. "I think the Cardinals were a very positive game. We did a lot of things well. We did things in the second half that gave our confidence. It was a step forward. If we can keep stepping forward instead of backwards we will be right."

Landry just think it was a significant win. But next Sunday (against the Redskins) and on Thanksgiving (against Seattle) we will show that we have gained confidence. We have no real prediction on it. It will be shown on the football

Series players take home record purses in payoff

NEW YORK — The winning Philadelphia Phillies and losing Kansas City Royals shared the richest World Series pot in history and both teams came away with record purses.

Each of the 33 members of the Phillies who were voted full shares will receive $34,693.18, according to the official figures released Monday by the baseball commissioner's office. This eclipses the previous high of $31,236.99 which went to members of the New York Yankees in 1978.

The Houston Astros, who lost a five-game playoff to Philadelphia in the National League playoffs, voted 28 full shares, amounting to $13,465.29 apiece. Until 1969, not even the World Series champion received as much.
