Landry still happy over game

United Press International
DALLAS — Looking back to one of the worst Cowboy performances of the season, Dallas head coach Tom Landry could still find aspects of the 14-10 win over Washington to praise.

"We didn't have a penalty in the entire game," Landry said Tuesday. "Now that's something. You know if you look hard enough, you can always find something good."

Actually, Landry had plenty of good things to say about some units of the team, mainly the play of the Cowboy defensive and specialty team squads.

"Ed Jones had probably his best game of the year. Harvey Martin played well. And of course, so did the galloping ghost," Landry said of defensive lineman Larry Cole, who grabbed a pass from Washington's Mike Kruzcek and ran 43 yards for the Cowboys' second touchdown.

"Randy White (who hit Kruzcek to jar the ball loose) made the play to give Cole the ball. White made a great play," Landry said.

The addition of James Jones to the Cowboys' kick return units has worked favorably all year. Jones is averaging 23.2 yards per kickoff return for the season.

James Jones, Ed Jones, Cole and Robert Newhouse received game balls for their contributions Sunday.

"(James) Jones has made the kick returning teams much stronger," Landry said. "He runs mainly north and south and not east and west and gives us generally good field position."

After disappointing season, Condon starts player search

After a disappointing end to a disappointing season, Texas A&M head Volleyball Coach Terry Condon promises a completely new look for the 1981 Aggie squad.

"Next year our team will be completely different," Condon, on the verge of embarking on her first remaining season as an Aggie, said. "Not many players from the past couple of years will be playing that much. I should say there'll be a good turnover."

These comments came Tuesday, three days after the women's volleyball team had returned home from Baton Rouge, where they lost two of three matches in the regional playoffs to eliminate them from contention for any national laurels. Not that Condon expected to make the nationals. Her team has played erratically all season, compiling an overall 23-31 record. At times, the talented young team played up to its potential, knocking off some of the conferences top teams, such as Lamar and Texas Tech. But inexperience overcame raw talent many times, and the Aggies lost several close matches to older teams such as Houston, Texas and UT-Arlington.

In Baton Rouge, the Ags lost to UT and to Tech, a team they had topped just two weeks before at the state championship here in College Station. Finally, the Ags scored their lone win over lowly North Texas State, for what Condon said seemed like the hundredth time this season.

Houston won the tournament with a victory over UT-Arlington in the final. Both teams qualified for the national tournament Dec. 9-12 in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Actually, the season is not quite over. The Aggies will also compete in the Southwest Conference Invitational in Lubbock Dec. 5-6, but Condon says the competition serves merely as a tuneup tournament for the Cougars and Yellowjackets. After that, the squad will take a two-month break, returning for offseason competition in the United States Volleyball Association's league.

Condon says she has four scholarships to fill and that her selection process will be highly competitive.

"I'm going to look for height, but I just want to get the best athletes," she said. "I really want aggressive girls, someone who gets mad when they're down, someone with the desire to win."

Men to travel to Maine

The 1-0 Texas A&M University basketball team will travel to Maine Friday to play the University of Maine.

The Aggies beat the Windsor Basketball Club of Canada last Saturday in the first action of the season, 84-

51, at G. Rollie White Coliseum. In that game, Rudy Woods bucketed 21 points and Rynn Wright added 18.

Next Tuesday, Texas A&M will be back home to play Texas Southern University.
