A&M presents arts seminar

By DENISE RICHTER
Battalion Reporter

People from all over the United States will attend the first Texas Arts Management Institute, a workshop providing basic management training for persons involved with the arts.

The seminar will be held in the Memorial Student Center at Texas A&M University Tuesday through Thursday, and is open to all students and faculty of A&M. It is designed for people involved with an arts council, arts center, community orchestra or museum.

The seminar is co-sponsored by the Texas Commission on the Arts, the Texas Assembly of Arts Councils, the Texas Agriculture Extension Service and the Texas A&M University Department of Recreation and Parks. Topics to be presented at the seminar include "Accounting Principles and Cash Management," "Budgeting Funds," "Public Relations Tools and Techniques," and "Fund Raising."

The seminar is high priority with the Texas Commission on the Arts and the Texas Assembly of Arts Councils, said Don Buzzingham, extension recreation specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

"It was found that people on the arts councils were very competent in the arts but they didn't have the necessary training in management and business," Buzzingham said.

Exhibits held in conjunction with the seminar include "The 20th Century American Indian — Tradition in Handicrafts" in the MSC Gallery Jan. 12 through Feb. 1; the sculptures and drawings of Paul Suttman in the Rudder Exhibit Hall Jan. 28 through Feb. 24; a display of publications from the Texas A&M University Press in the display case adjacent to the MSC Gallery Jan. 26 through Feb. 1; and the Brazos Valley Youth Art Show in the Brazos Center Jan. 23 through Jan. 30.

New York dean presents lecture

Dr. Jacob Bigeleisen, vice president for research and dean of graduate studies at State University of New York — Stony Brook, will present this year's Welch Foundation Lecture.

Bigeleisen's lecture, "Systematics of Isotope Chemistry," will be presented at 3 p.m. Tuesday in 231 Chemistry.

Bigeleisen is a specialist in isotope chemistry and has contributed to research on large-scale isotope separation processes used in the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission program, including the Manhattan Project.

He received his bachelor's degree from New York University in 1939, his master's from Washington State University in 1941 and his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley in 1943. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

The Welch Foundation, sponsor of the lecture, is one of the 25 largest research-oriented foundations in the world. This past year the foundation awarded over $1 million to chemistry and physics researchers at Texas A&M University, Tarleton State University and Prairie View A&M University to cover a total of 53 projects. The Welch Foundation also endows the Robert A. Welch Chair in Chemistry.

Chapman's defense evidence destroyed

HONOLULU — An attorney says the logbook in which accused killer Mark David Chapman signed himself as "John Lennon" has been destroyed.

Attorney David Bettencourt represents Joseph Bustamonte, former manager of the Waikiki condominium where Chapman, accused of the slaying of ex-Beatle Lennon, once worked as a security guard. The logbook was subpoenaed to be presented to Chapman's defense lawyer.

After a court hearing Thursday, Bettencourt told reporters the logbook in which Chapman had signed out as "John Lennon" on Oct. 26 was destroyed on Jan. 9. The attorney said he hopes to get a witness who will tell how the logbook was destroyed.

Bustamonte had been in court because Chapman's New York attorney, Johnathan Marks, is seeking the logbook and other material to use in Chapman's defense case. Chapman has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to charges accusing him of shooting Lennon in New York Dec. 8.

Bustamonte said the logbook disappeared after it was showed news photographers just after Lennon's death. But Marks says Bustamonte showed him the logbook Jan. 9 and told the attorney he was holding onto it until he could sell it.

During the hearing, Bettencourt said his client would not testify about the evidence in Hawaii because anything Bustamonte might say could be used against him. Bettencourt said the state's prosecuting attorney might charge his client with obstructing justice, hindering prosecution and tampering with physical evidence.

Bustamonte said he would not testify in New York because its immunity laws differ from those in Hawaii and any evidence introduced there could be used against his client in the islands.

New regents preside at UT

AUSTIN — A Fort McKavett rancher-banker and a Uvalde doctor were chosen Saturday to serve as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the University of Texas System Board of Regents.

James L. Powell, a member of the board since January 1979, was chosen as the new chairman. The vice chairman is Dr. Sterling H. Phillips Jr., a regent since January 1977. Both were appointed by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Gov. Bill Clements appointed three new regents to fill six-year terms. They are Briscoe's wife, Janet Briscoe of Uvalde, Beryl Buckler Milburn of Austin and Tom B. Rhodes of Dallas. Milburn and Rhodes previously served on the Coordinating Board of State Colleges and Universities.
