Lecture group to host talks

By SUSAN DITTMAN
Battalion Reporter
Texas A&M University students, faculty, staff and the curious can hear four lecturers who are outstanding in their respective fields this semester.

The University Lectures Committee, which usually plans one faculty lecture and three off-campus lectures every year, has added an additional speaker to its list of off-campus lecturers this year, Dr. Donald McDonald, committee chairman, said.

The four lecturers and lecture dates are:

— March 27 — Henry Steele Commager, historian, educator and author of numerous books and articles, will give a lecture sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts. The topic has not been determined yet.

— April 3 — Arthur B. Laffer, professor of business economics at the University of Southern California and advisor for the Reagan administration, will give a lecture sponsored by the College of Business Administration. That topic is also undetermined.

— April 13 — David Hamburg, director of health policy at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, will speak on "Health Policy Issues in the 1980's." The lecture will be sponsored by the College of Medicine.

— April 29 — Frederick Praeger, president and publisher of Westview Press in Boulder, Colo., will speak on "The Impact of Technological Advances and Budget Crunches on Scholarly Book Publishing." The lecture will be sponsored by the Evans Library.

The University Lecture Committee is composed of one faculty representative from each college, one representative each from the library and the Memorial Student Center and three students.

In alphabetical order starting with the College of Agriculture, each college is allowed to choose an outstanding lecturer from off-campus, McDonald said. He added that final approval of the lecturer comes from the committee.

The first lecture series started in 1968. It is funded by the University, which sets aside a budget for the committee, McDonald said.

The faculty lecturer, who is chosen by the committee, is usually an outstanding member of his field as well as a good speaker, McDonald said. "The faculty lecturer talks about his field," he said, "but generally we try to get them to broaden it (their topic) out."

This year's faculty lecturer was Dr. John McDermott, head of the philosophy and humanities department.
